Dedication

Philip Houghton

Mr. Houghton, after graduating from Bates College in Maine, taught mathematics and English at Maine's Mars Hill High School. In his extra time he was a Boy Scout Master.

In 1950 Mr. Houghton came to Colorado and began work toward his Master's degree at Colorado University.

His studies were interrupted two years later, when he went to Panama to become the Director of the Information and Education Service for the Army at Fort Kobbe. While in the Canal Zone, Mr. Houghton was Educational Director of the first Boys' State program outside the continental United States.

After spending six years in Panama Mr. Houghton returned to Colorado and became a teacher at South in 1958. In addition to teaching American Literature and College Preparatory English, Mr. Houghton has been the sponsor of the Johnny Reb since 1960. During that time the Johnny Reb has received many first class national awards as an outstanding yearbook, and in 1961 was awarded the top Medalist rating from Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Weekends find Mr. Houghton "moonlighting": his second job is driving a chartered bus for Colorado Transportation Company. Many students know him as the cheerful driver of the ski bus or the bus which takes the Biology classes on field trips.

In spite of his full schedule, Mr. Houghton has found time to be an active member of the Denver Classroom Teachers Association. As a building representative from South and as chairman of the Professional Negotiations Committee, he has been instrumental in efforts to raise the professional competence of teachers, to achieve higher salaries, and to gain better working conditions. Mr. Houghton has also written English materials on parallel structure to be used by the Denver Public Schools for programmed instruction, a recently developed method by which a student may progress according to his own learning rate and level of understanding.

Last summer in August he received his Master's degree in Education and next year he will go on sabbatical leave to work for his doctorate. He will be missed by many students at South.

To you, Mr. Houghton—for your interest in each student as an individual, for the extra time you give to all who desire to learn or to create, for your efforts in bettering the teaching profession, and (especially from the Staff) for your outstanding work with the yearbook—we dedicate the 1964 Johnny Reb.

'Tis ever sweetly ringing,
The name we hold so dear.
Our voices take the glad refrain
And echo far and near.
As loyal sons and daughters,
May we in song unite.
All love and praise and honor bring
To the purple and the white.
Alma Mater, Alma Mater,
Hail all hail to thee.
Sing it loud that all may hear
South High hail to thee.

Of you with many faces: countless eyes
that mirror endless aspirations,
Tongues which tell of love and life,
Of you who carve your inmost soul in words,
for men to understand,
And you who fling the discus
towards the highest peaks,
Of you who spend long hours in measuring an inch,
And you whose lives are like the sunlight
on a rippling lake,
Of you whose right and wrong are tossed on
wind-swept seas,
Of you whose self-examination twists your hearts, revealing painful flaws;
Of all who seek ourselves and truth
beyond the printed page,
Of all, life weaves a growing fabric,
loomed of diverse threads . . .
. . . kaleidoscopic contrast.

Expanding dreams and concepts grow
Beyond our silent corridors and red brick walls.
Youth tentatively tests its new ideals,
Reshaping values in an ever-broad'ning frame.
Our teachers, older, with established goals,
Share ageless visions, fanning each creative spark.
Their purpose lies in us;
And ours
In snaring far-flung stars with nets of hope—

Administration

The day of work begins early for South's administrative personnel. Our principal, assistant principal, dean and co-ordinator are at school before 8:00 a.m. every morning attending to the special needs of South's large student body. Dr. Anderson, the principal, faces the responsibility of keeping the big institution that is South running smoothly. The assistant principal and the dean handle many of the less pleasant disciplinary problems for South. Dean Patterson also has the duty of approving those students who run for a school office, queen applicants, and individuals who try out for the Foreign Exchange Program. Mr. Thomas, the assitant principal, fixes the class schedules and procedures for air raids and fire drills. The co-ordinator, Mr. Mohr, organizes and synchronizes all activities of South students and co-ordinates senior high work with junior high foundations. The day is a busy yet rewarding one for our administrators. They all show a wonderful enthusiasm and spirit and, because of their interest in the individual student, South is a better school.

Faculty

Teaching is a difficult yet exciting profession. There are many experiences for each teacher in the course of a day which make the long hours of work and small pay inconsequential.

A teacher's day begins early. Most leave their homes before eight every morning in order to be at school at 8:15 a.m., although their day actually begins at 8:30. Once at school, teachers hurry to their classes ready to demonstrate a new scientific principle, to explain historical happenings, or to diagram a sentence. Teachers find little time during their busy day to rest, but for their few moments of relaxation the faculty room is a favorite meeting place. Most instructors spend one or more periods a day counseling and programing students. Some teachers have difficulty in finding time for lunch, yet lunch is what gives them their enthusiasm for the afternoon! In addition, many stay after school to lend their support to one or more of the many clubs at South. Some teachers also take outside jobs to supplement their incomes, and others fill their time with a variety of activities which may include working for a higher degree in education or simply having fun.

Trials and rewards, discouragement and encouragement, and bad experiences along with the good characterize a teacher's day.

Clerical Staff

Service to all is the purpose of the clerical staff. The office clerks receive all telephone calls, prepare official bulletins, keep the attendance files and students' records, and distribute supplies for the school. Fee cards and all money transactions at South are under the supervision of the school treasurer. The work of the clerical staffs is evident in the efficient management of South.

Members of the clerical staff relax during a brief lull in their busy day.

Custodians and Kitchen Staff

The custodians and kitchen staff perform an important task at South. It is the custodians who keep the building clean and the facilities in good working order. The members of the kitchen staff spend hours preparing the food which is enjoyed by the students and faculty of South each day.

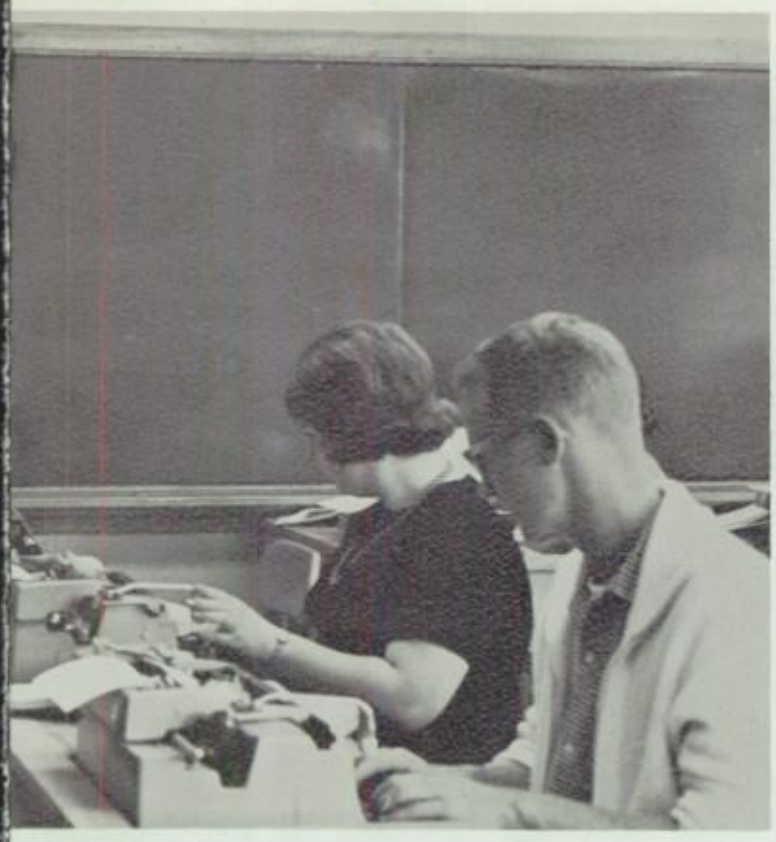
South has many courses to offer its students, and because of this wide range of subject matter, South has a variety of departments to classify the individualized course offerings.

There is a large choice of linguistic studies at South which includes the French, Spanish, Latin, advanced Latin, German and Russian languages. To improve their use and understanding of foreign languages, students have the use of an extensive language laboratory. This electronic equipment gives linguistic scholars the chance to hear the different languages spoken and to add to their understanding of and skill with the language.

English is South's largest department. Students learn the fundamentals of grammar, which are an aid to composition, and they also gain an understanding of the great writings in the English language. The many different courses in English offered at South include composition, creative writing, speech, drama, journalism and college level English. Students also have the opportunity to work on the Confederate, South's newspaper, or on the Johnny Reb, South's yearbook.

In addition, South has a variety of excellent social science offerings. Rebels have the chance to study nearly any phase of history they wish, including history of ancient, medieval and contemporary times. To give students knowledge of important events, South provides studies in American history, western history, ancient history, European history, current affairs, government, economics, psychology, sociology and college level history.



Virginia, it was nice to have you as my assistant! Best wishes as you enter college. Bruce Carr

Mr. Carr explains college application procedures to a student.

Under Mr. Goff's direction, the orchestra spends long hours practicing for concerts.

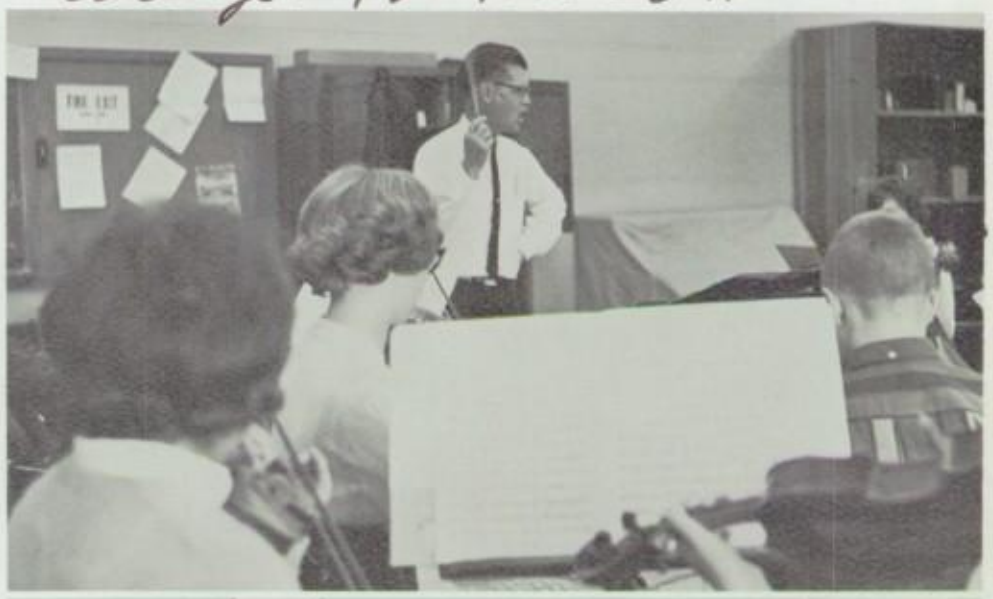
Curriculum

Science courses at South include all of the different areas of science. Students spend one hour a week doing experiments as well as their regular class work. South helps students to gain basic knowledge of the environment by offering zoology, botany, physiology, astronomy, geology, photography, general biology, regular chemistry and college level chemistry.

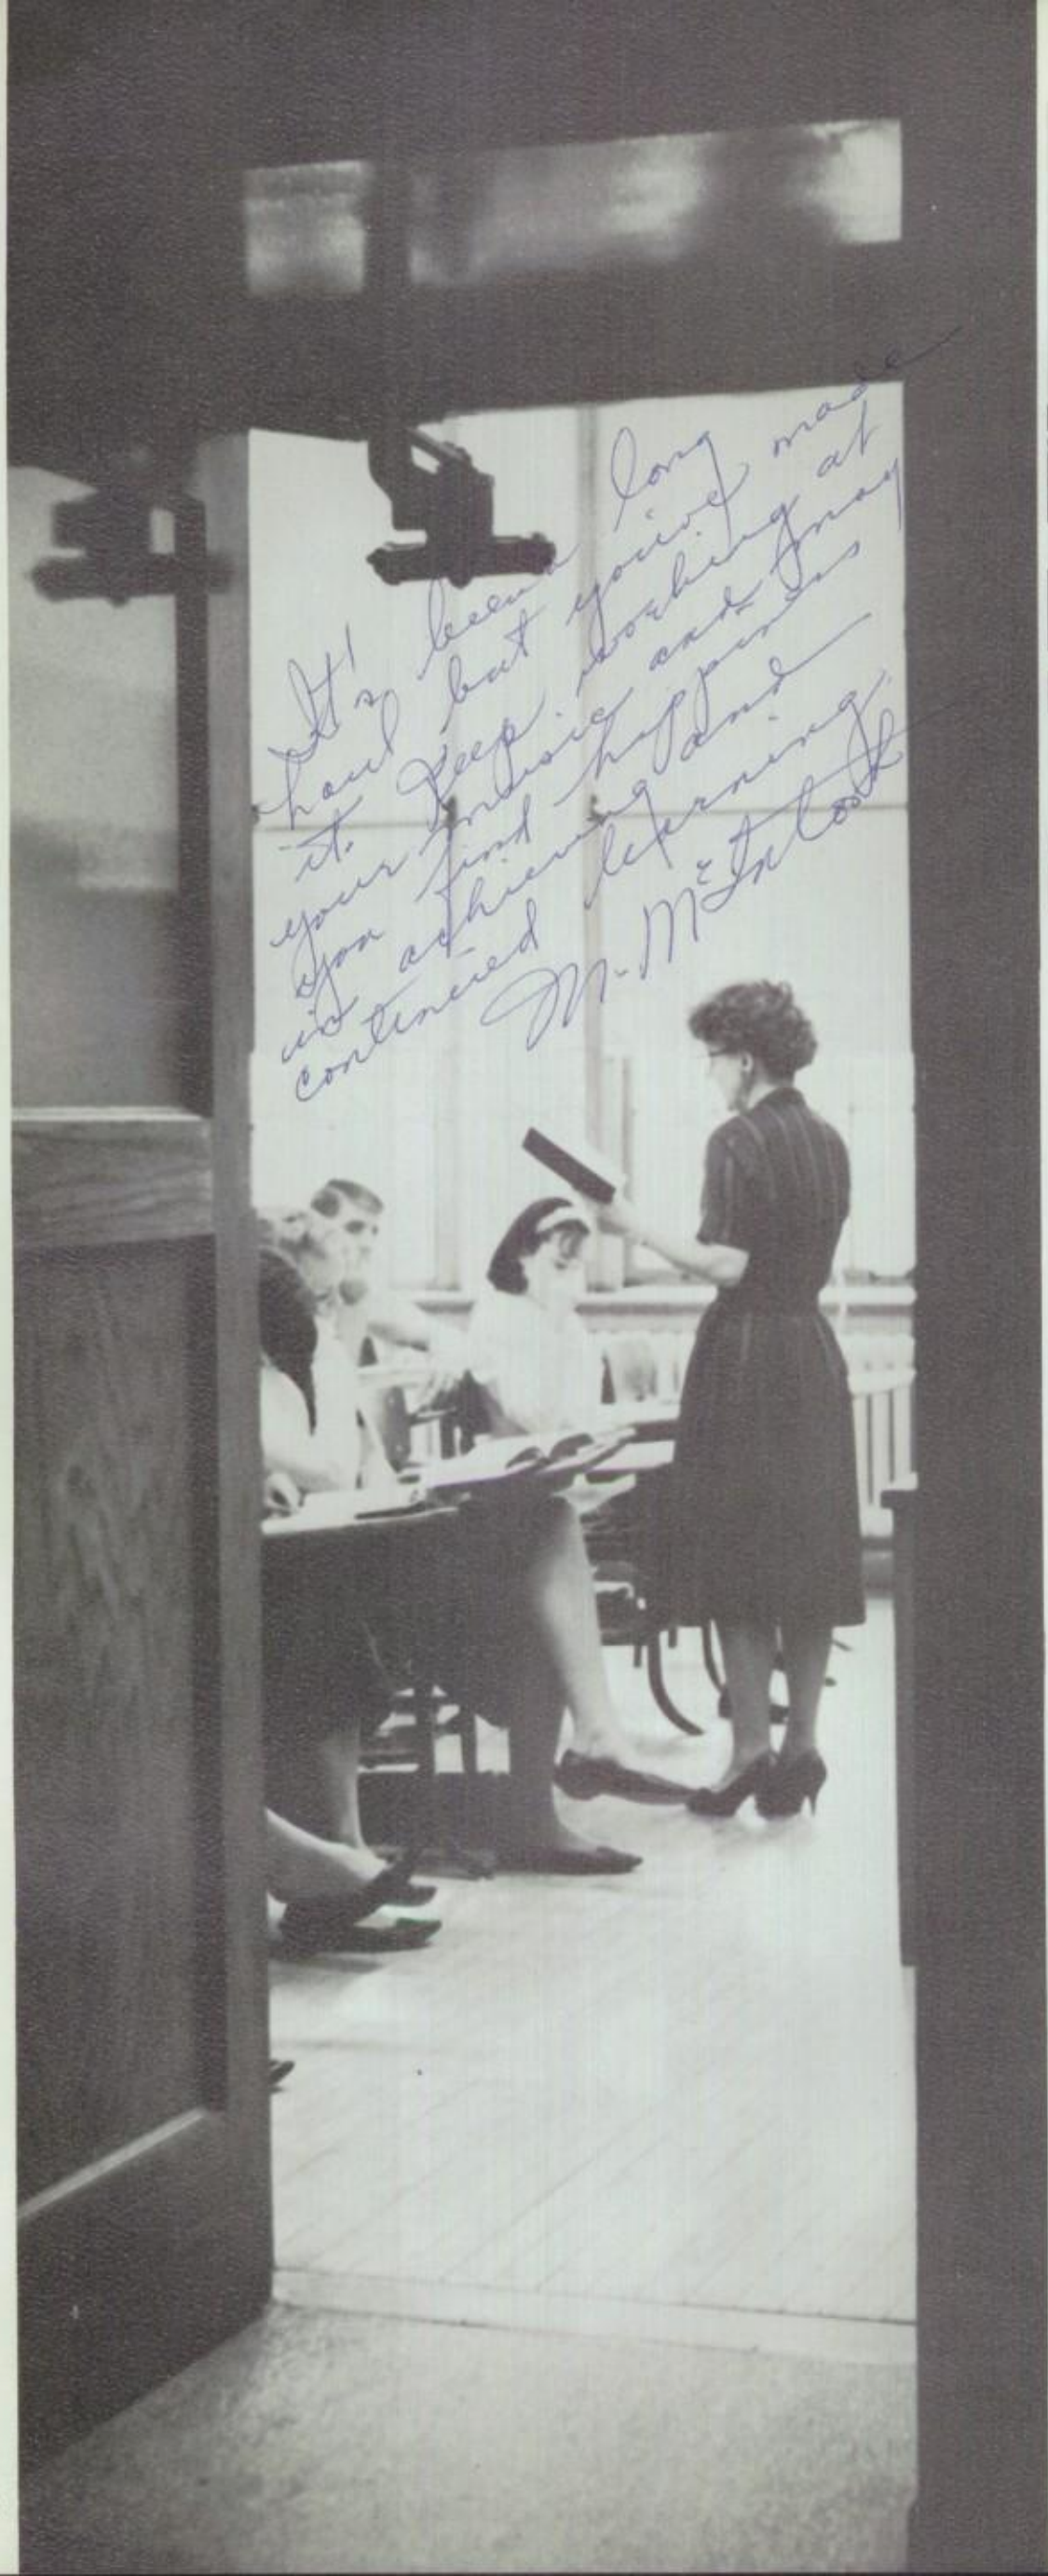
South has an excellent mathematical program for all who wish to study the pure and applied aspects of math. Basic and general math, algebra, plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, and math analysis are available to all who want a thorough foundation in numerical concepts. Those who have the desire and ability can take college level math or calculus in their senior year.

South's art department gives all students who are interested in artistic expression the opportunity to increase their skill with drawing and painting, commercial art, fashion design, interior design and sculpture. Because of the knowledge art students gain, they have a better understanding and appreciation of the great imaginative portrayals in world culture.

Physical fitness is important just as mental education is essential. Physical education is needed to improve and maintain the health of the student body. Each team, which competes in the different sports, keeps South's school spirit at a high level. Teachers and students are unified by the excitement that the contests produce.



Mr. Morrison describes an important principle in physics to his students.



It's been a long road but you've made it. Keep looking at your future and the things and achievements contained therein.
M. McIntosh

The language lab is a great teaching and learning help as demonstrated here by Miss Evans and her Spanish class.

School

The business education department prepares students for a career in the field of business. Courses such as stenography, typing, and bookkeeping are included to give scholars a start in the business world.

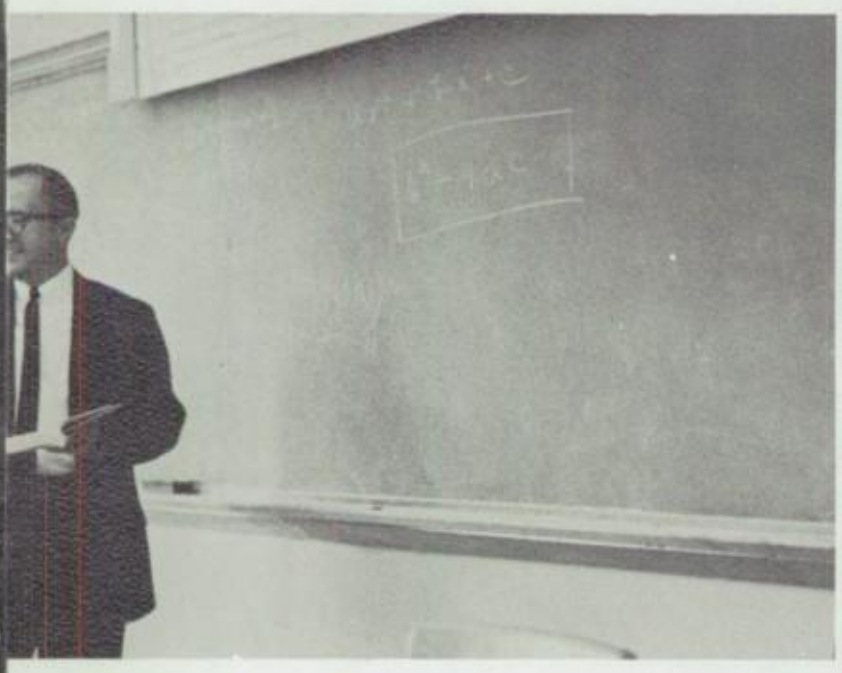
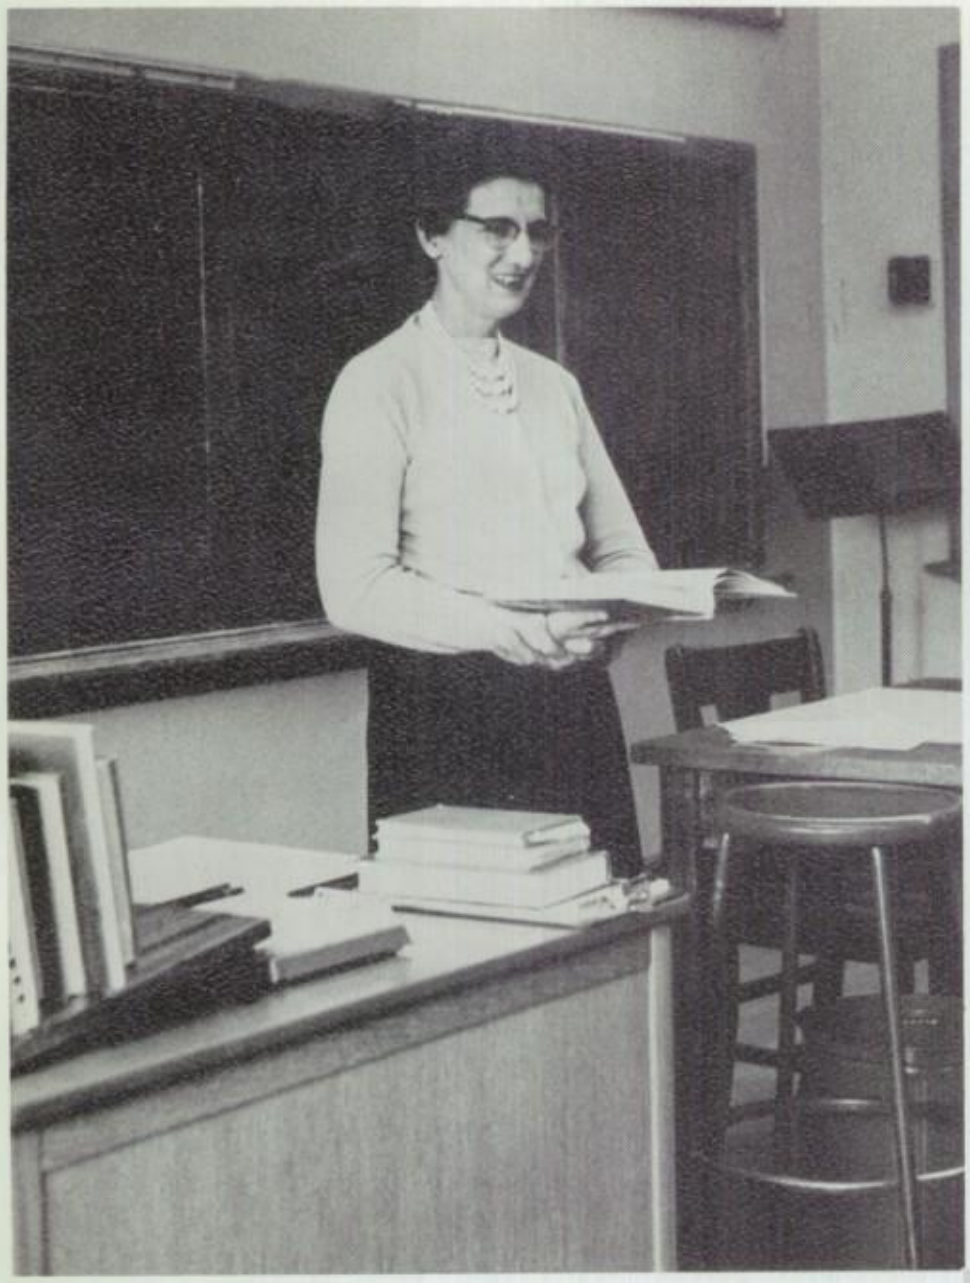
Larry Barwick operates a table saw to shape the pieces of his woodworking project.



Mr. Hensy interjects supplementary information to help his Algebra 3 students.

Special



Miss Guindon

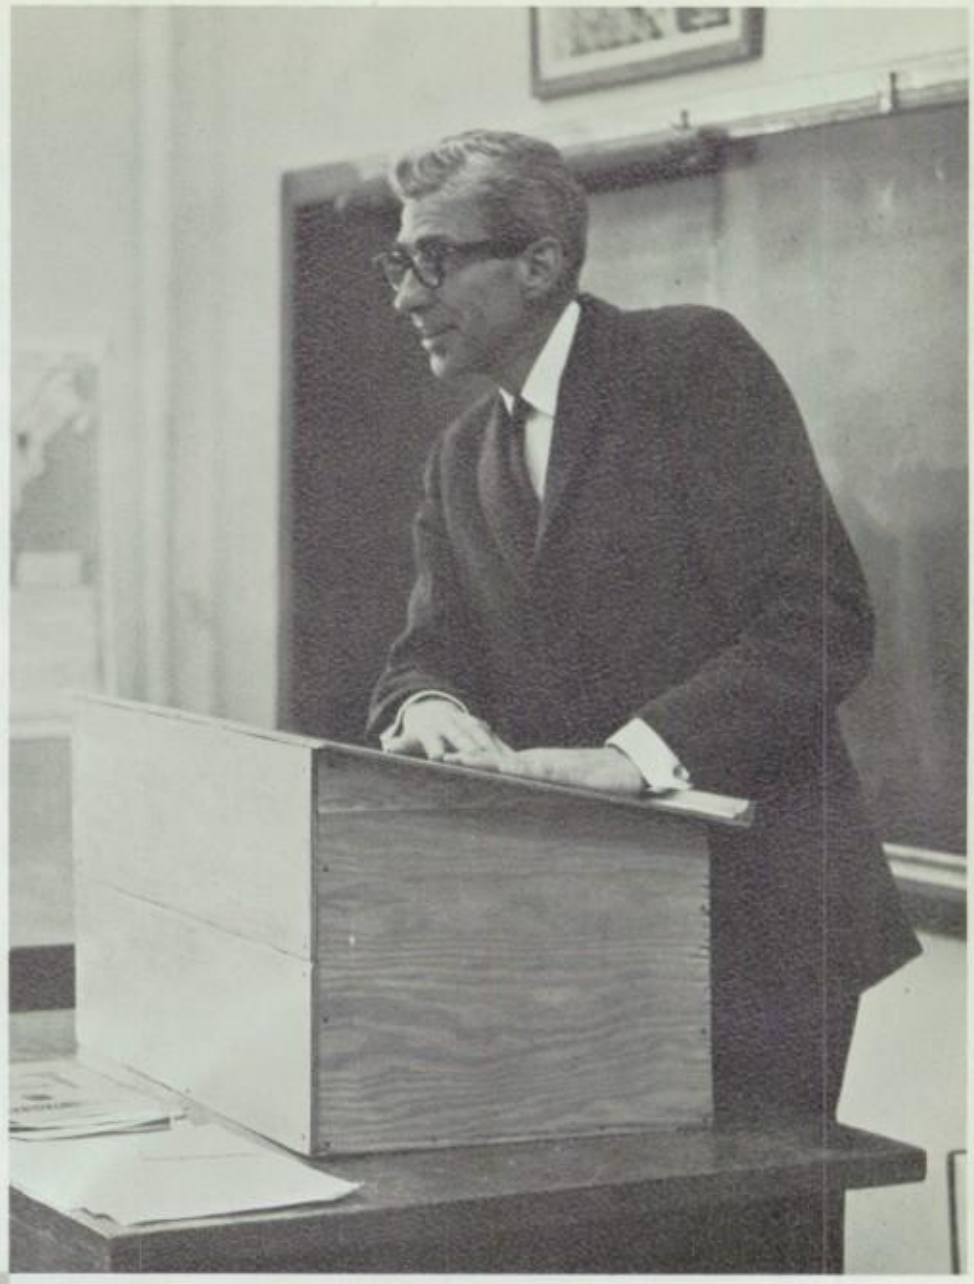
Latin students have the advantage of being taught by a teacher who knows and enjoys the language she teaches, Miss Guindon. Not only do her students benefit from her extraordinary intimacy with the language, but from her familiarity with Rome and its civilization, culture gained partly from having studied at one time at the American Academy in the Eternal City. During this year she has taught the first College Latin course to be given in the Denver Public Schools. We wish to recognize Miss Guindon for her outstanding academic achievements and her genuine concern for each student.

Coach Yates

A familiar figure at rallies is Coach Yates, reading his favorite poem to stimulate rousing school spirits in both team and students. Mr. Yates graduated from South in 1944, and returned fifteen years ago to teach American History and coach our teams. He arrives at school every day at 7:30, and doesn't leave until late, in order to coach varsity football and the sophomore baseball team and junior basketball. His year usually starts in August, with the beginning of selection and training of the teams. We thank Coach Yates for his contributions to the school spirit and we hope he will continue to coach fine teams for South.

Recognition

Dr. Lonsdale

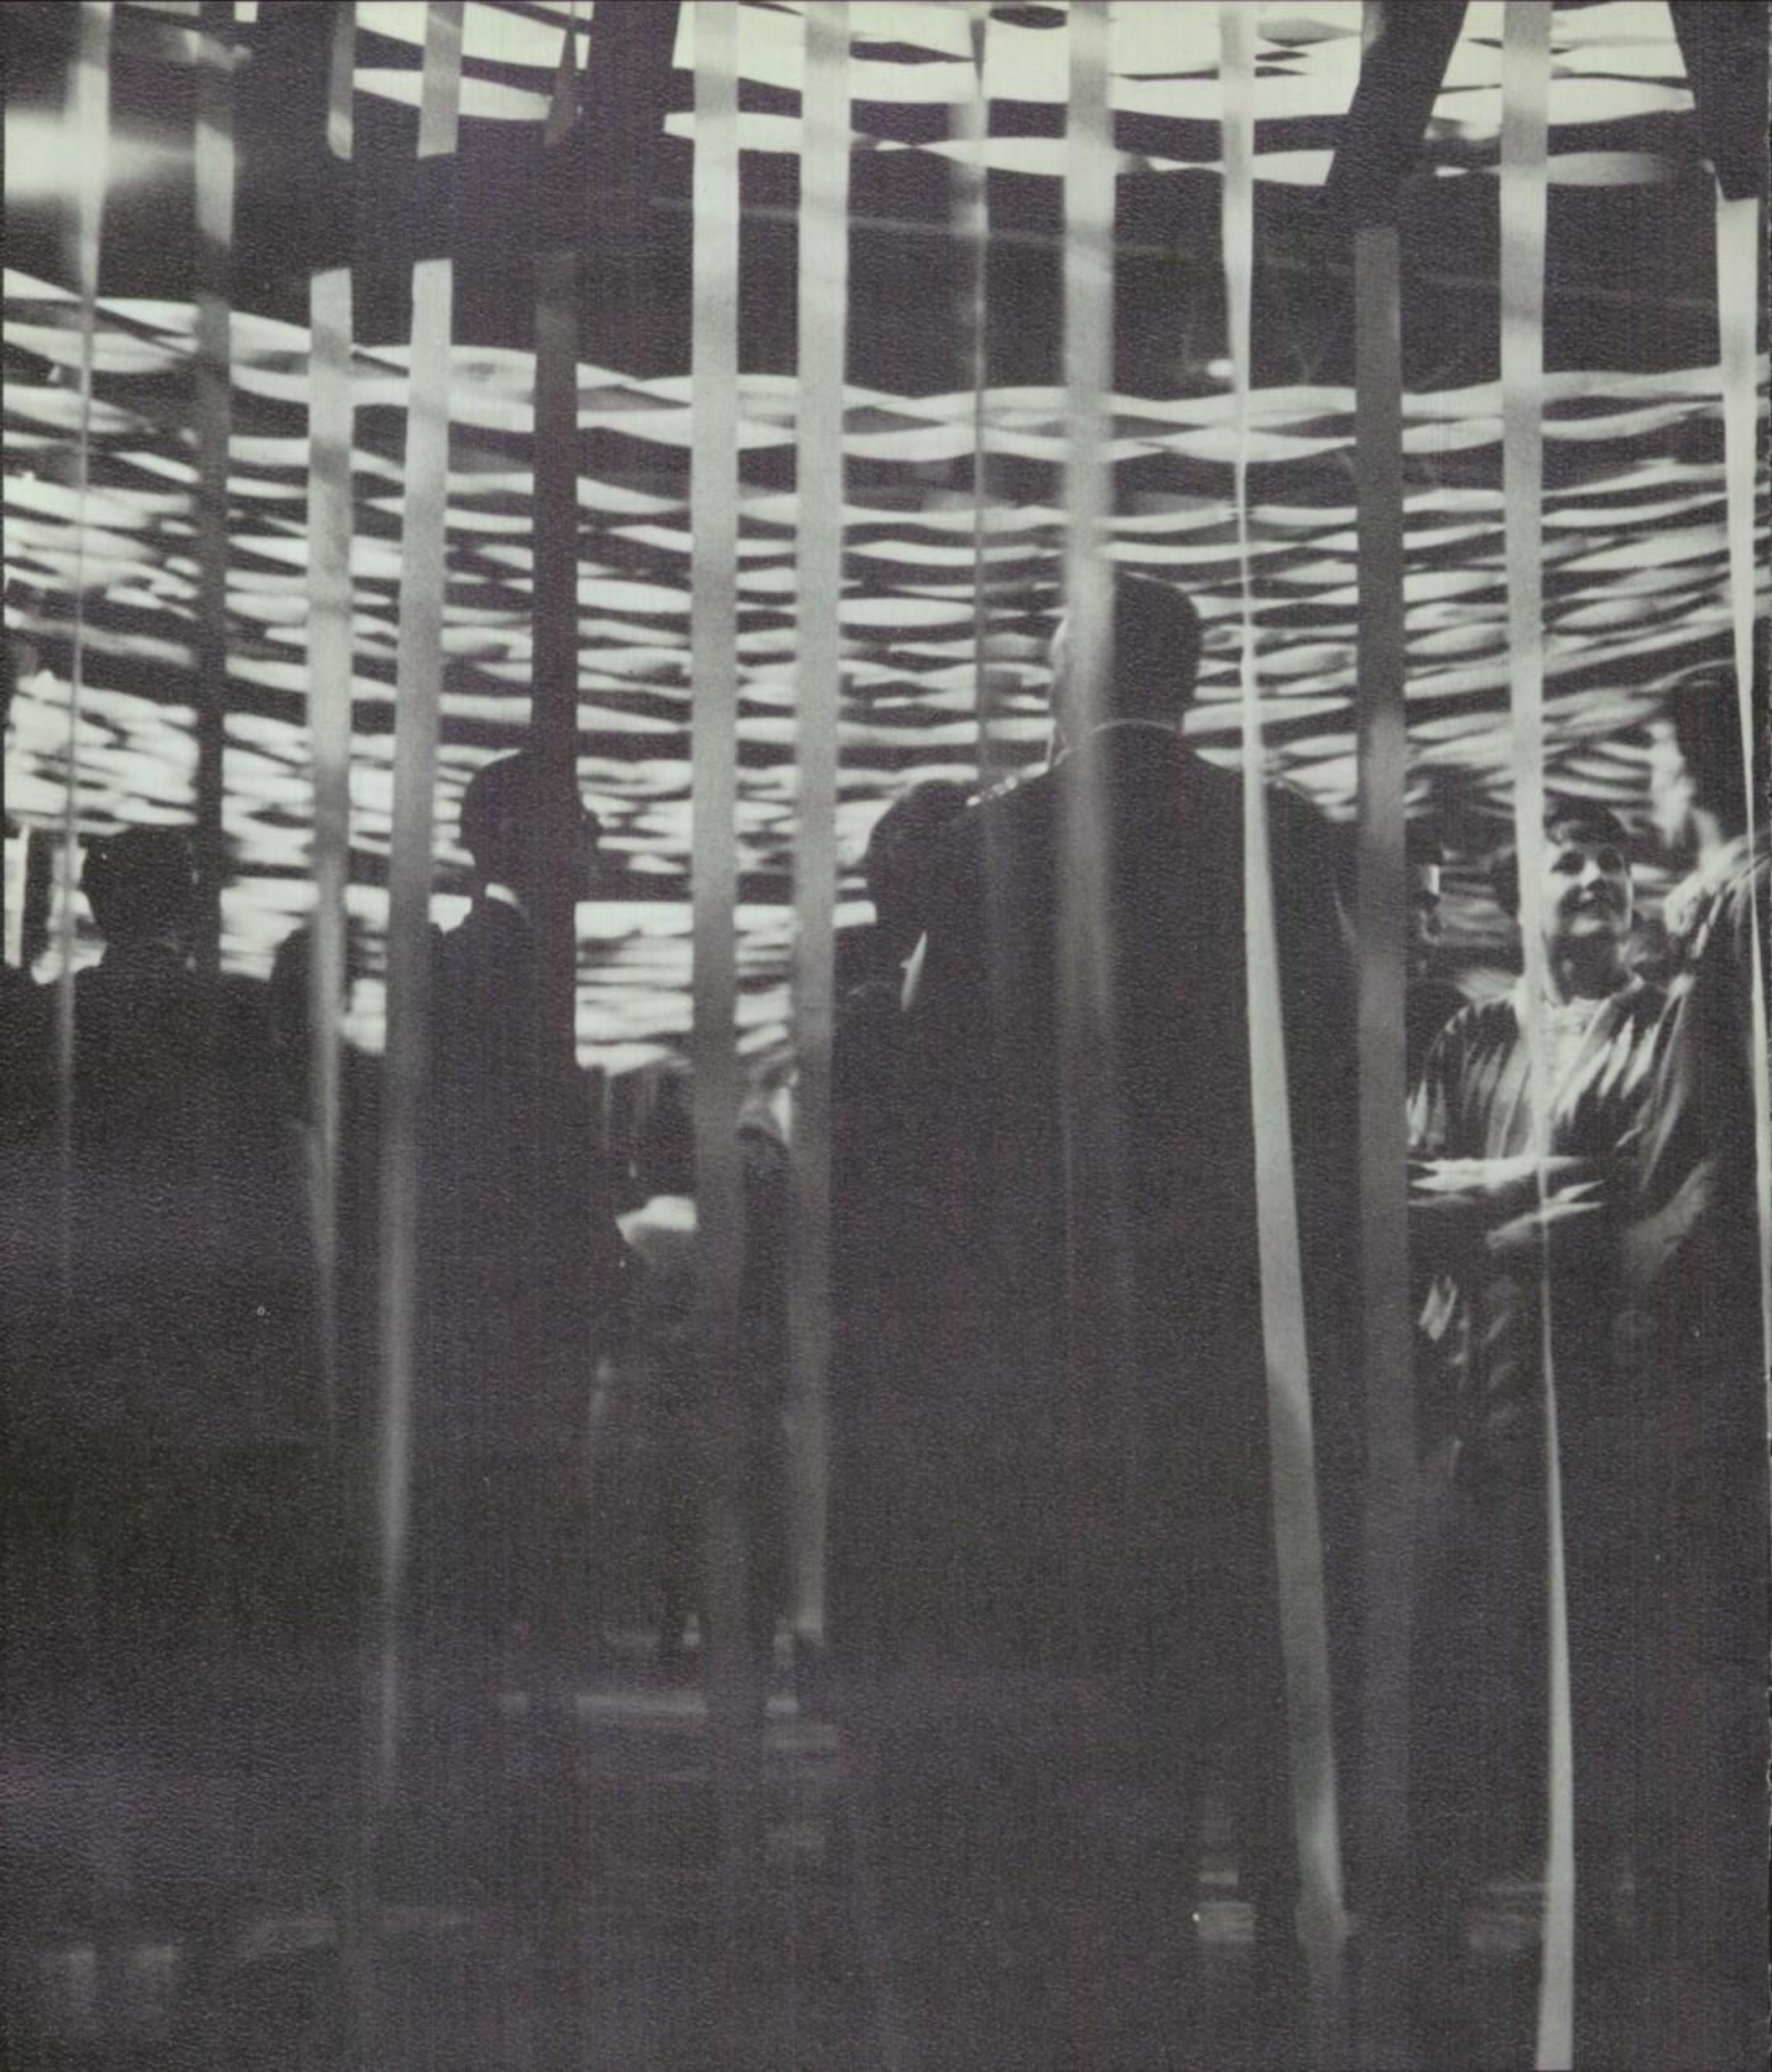


The history department boasts the only Ph. D. teaching at South, Dr. Lonsdale, who received his doctorate from the University of Colorado in 1962. Dr. Lonsdale teaches American History, and accelerated European History. In past years he has taught American Government. His students say that he causes the dry pages to sparkle with vitality, a quality which makes history delightful to learn. In his spare time as sponsor of Junior Red Cross, Dr. Lonsdale is always available with suggestions but does not interfere with student leadership. We congratulate Dr. Lonsdale on his high academic achievements, and hope he will continue to teach at South in the future.

Mr. Richards

Mr. Richards is liked by his pupils not for being an "easy" teacher, but for making them work. Graduated seniors, returning from college, have said he teaches the equivalent of a college course in physiology. Mr. Richards also teaches zoology, and has taught biology. In his spare time he sponsors Chess Club and Fencing Club. During the summer, he conducts biological research at Cottonwood Pass. Mr. Richards, we wish to thank you for your outstanding courses and the work involved in your numerous club activities.

V: You certainly have shown great progress in all ways here - Keep up the good work, but take time to help others + enjoy the offerings of life - Ole the best - V. E. Richards



Activities

The air hangs silent with anticipation—void,
and waiting to be filled.
The curtains sway, and sandbags slowly swing above an empty stage.
Now hollow footsteps click, reverberate in stillness,
activating countless ghostly thespians.
Then voices echo in the massive soundbox,
their chatter magnified and disproportionate.
Behind the grease-paint new performers throb with joy or sorrow for the darkened throng, as underneath the colored banks they dance and sing.
And spurred by accolades, they outperform themselves.
Crepe-paper slowly twists in unseen airless currents,
above the shining, polished floor devoid of movement.
Then couples writhe unseeing to sirenic strains,
caught in strange and rhythmic rituals.
And lovers smile into each other's eyes.
The hour tolls twelve, the dancers are called home to sleep,
The silence settles down on Shakespeare's stage—
and on his world.

. . . activity, stillness, dreams.

The New South

"Out of the darkness and into the light" was the sentiment of many Rebels as they took their first look at South's bright new addition. Modern classrooms and well-lighted halls made these new rooms favorites right away. The new wing is truly the most pleasant place to study in the reconstructed South.

As part of the entertainment for the sophomore tea, Jane DiFulco does a difficult acrobatic stunt.

Sophomore

Some sophomores were shy at first.

"Southern Welcome" was the title of this year's Sophomore Tea sponsored by the Pep Club. Girls representing each individual junior high school entertained their fellow sophomores prior to refreshments served in the South Court by members of the Pep Club.

October 23rd was the magic date for many sophomores as they took their first look at a "swinging" and informal high school dance. The Reagents provided music for the newest dance enthusiasts at South. In a flurry of purple and white crepe paper, the sophomores learned that along with serious studies South High offers fun and entertainment.

A hearty welcome is given to sophomore girls by members of the Pep Club.

Interest ran high as sophs elected class officers.

Orientation

As the evening lengthened, most sophomores discovered that fun was found in friendly groups gathered around the band.

Spirits were high as Rebels gathered before the homecoming game.

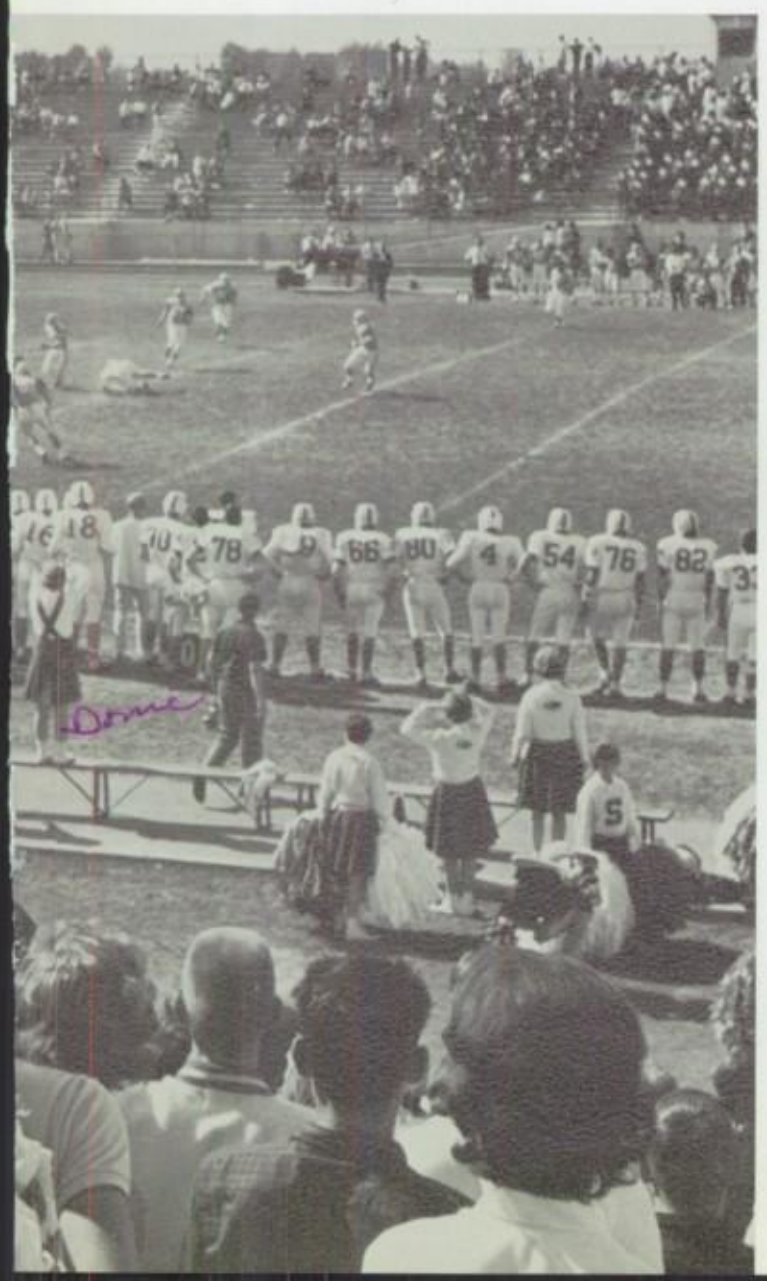
Artistry was used by members of the Pep Club in hanging the purple and white.

Homecoming

Off Center, the '63-'64 Homecoming Dance, was characterized by the slow music of Steve Christopher's band and the fast and frantic tones of The Reagents. The "trip" was the dance of the hour as the Rebels celebrated a victorious and uniquely wonderful homecoming.

1963

The strains of a spirited band and soft, friendly chatter brought the South student body together at the Rebel Roundup before the annual homecoming game. Shortly before the game the confident Rebels lined up amid confusion and class cheers to march together to the stadium.



Dancing space was at a premium in the girls' gym.

The excitement of a kickoff brings the crowd to its feet during the Homecoming game.

Aunt Eller helped Curly in his plans to win Laurie.

Purple Parliament

With emphasis on duties of school and club officers, student leaders gathered to attend Purple Parliament, the annual leadership conference. Mr. Small, the guest speaker, spoke on the responsibilities of being a leader, and answered questions relating to specific club problems. Study groups were formed to help individuals in specialized areas. The day ended as Ron Lundquist gave the final speech of the session. Refreshments were served, and the tired leaders realized that fun could be interjected into even the most serious day's work.

Small discussion groups got to the roots of many problems.

Mr. Small emphasized qualities of leadership.

Green Grow The Lilacs

Everything from romance to lively dancing was featured in the first play of the year presented by the Senior Drama Class. Starr McLeran played the lead as Laurie, and Dave Hall performed convincingly as Curly. Rogene Felix, portraying Ado Annie, and Tim Barden as Jeeter gave the play a delightful sense of humor. With the firm support of their backstage crews, the whole cast pulled together to make "Green Grow the Lilacs" an easy-going and enjoyable comedy.

Many crews helped the cast prepare for their production.

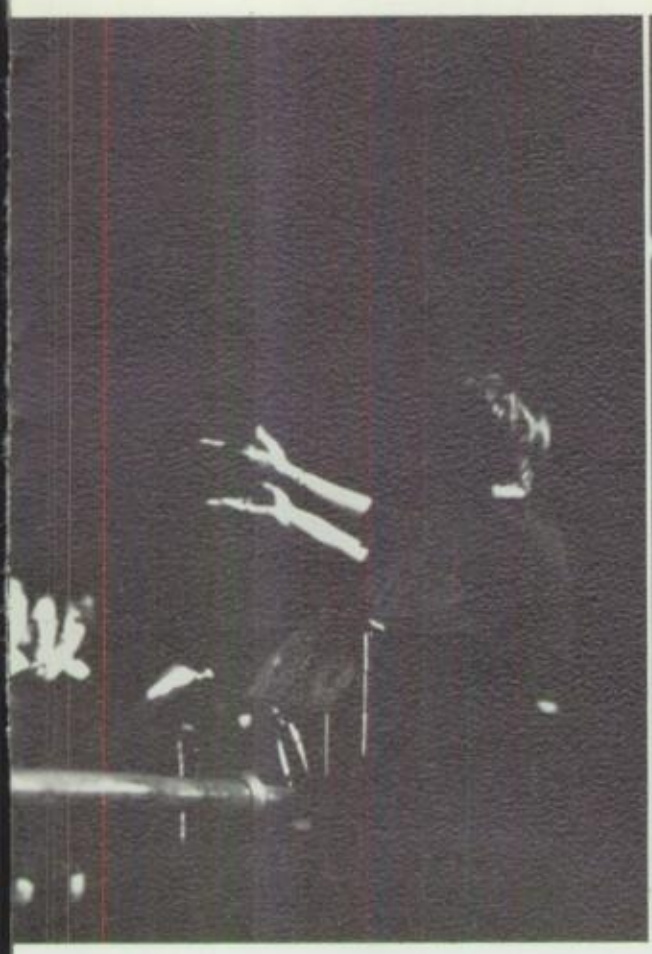
Boo Domer and Jim Elliot gave an "interesting" demonstration at Purple Parliament.

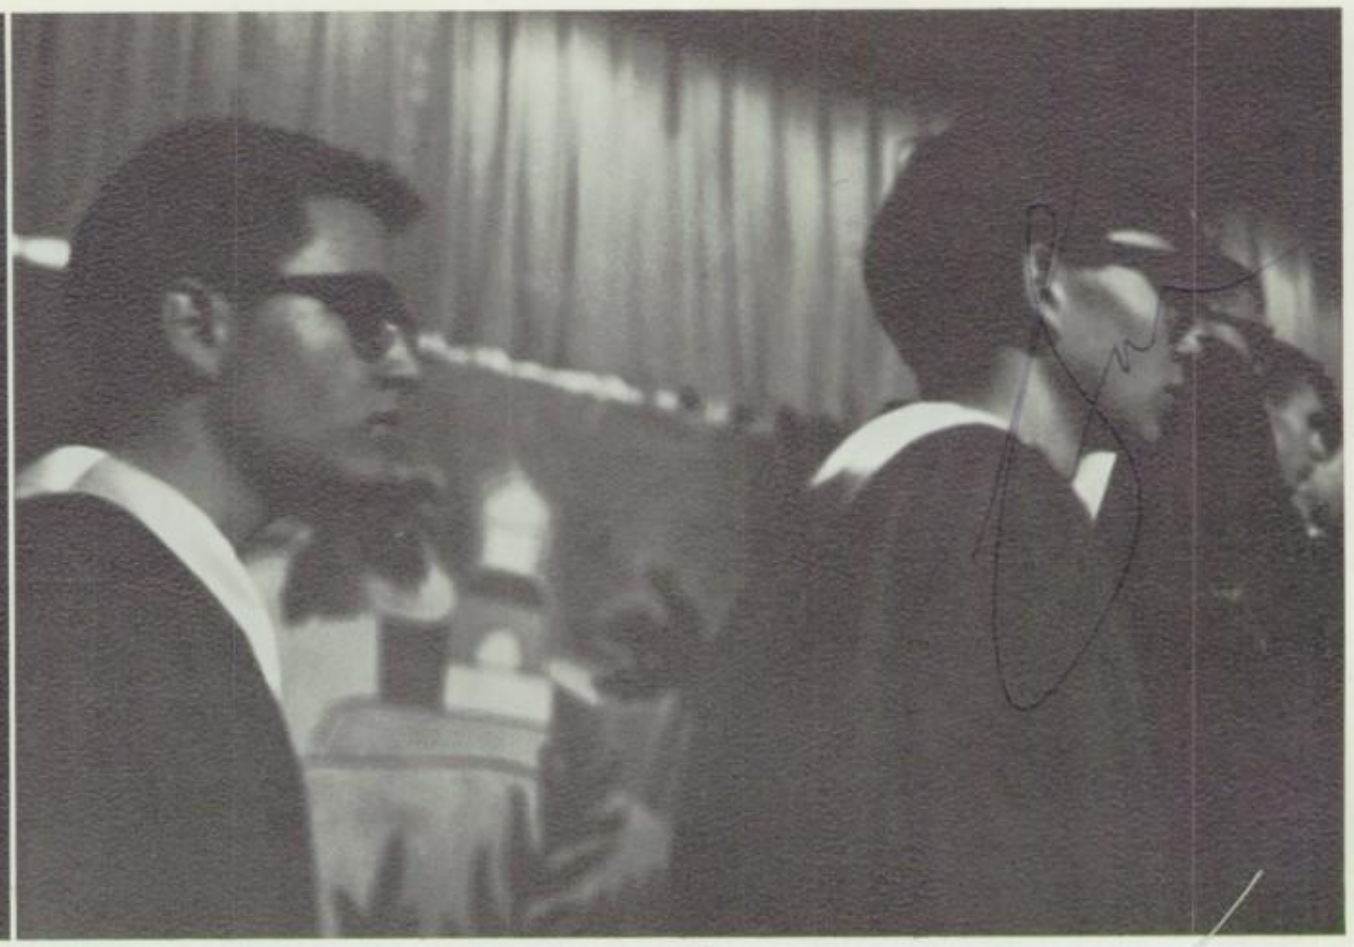
Refreshments disappeared fast after a tiring day.

Rebels often gathered around the beautifully decorated tree in the main hall.

Alumni

Jim Elliot proved he could take the lion by the tail.





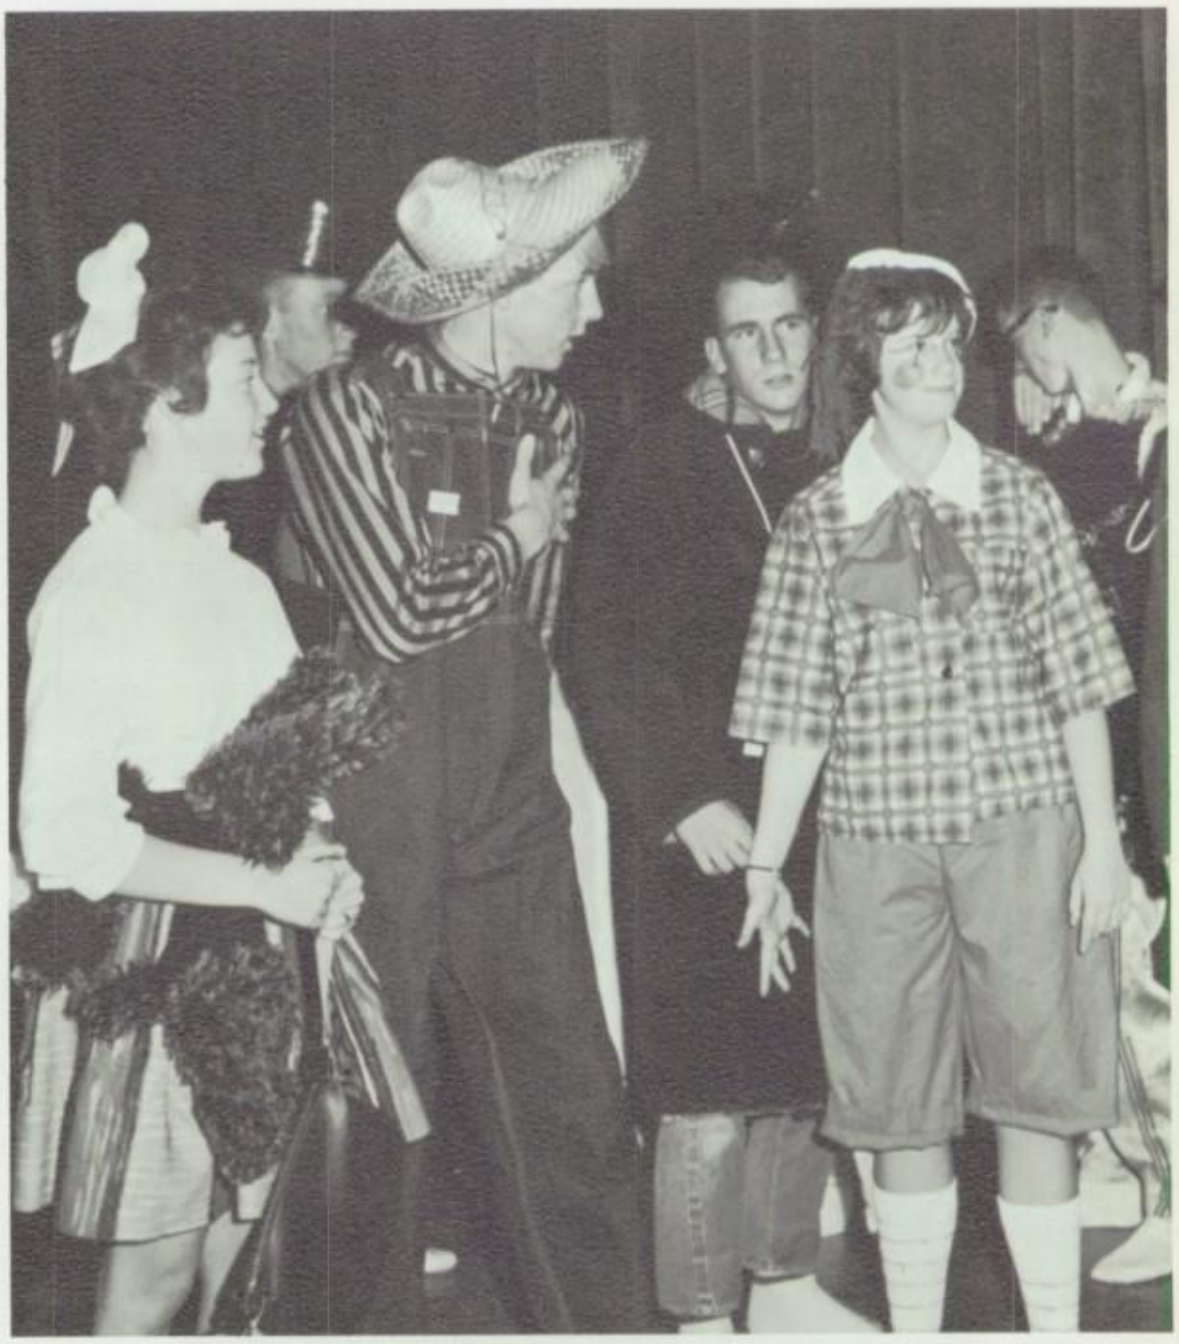
Members of Concert and Bach choirs gave beautiful performances in the spirit of the season.

Week

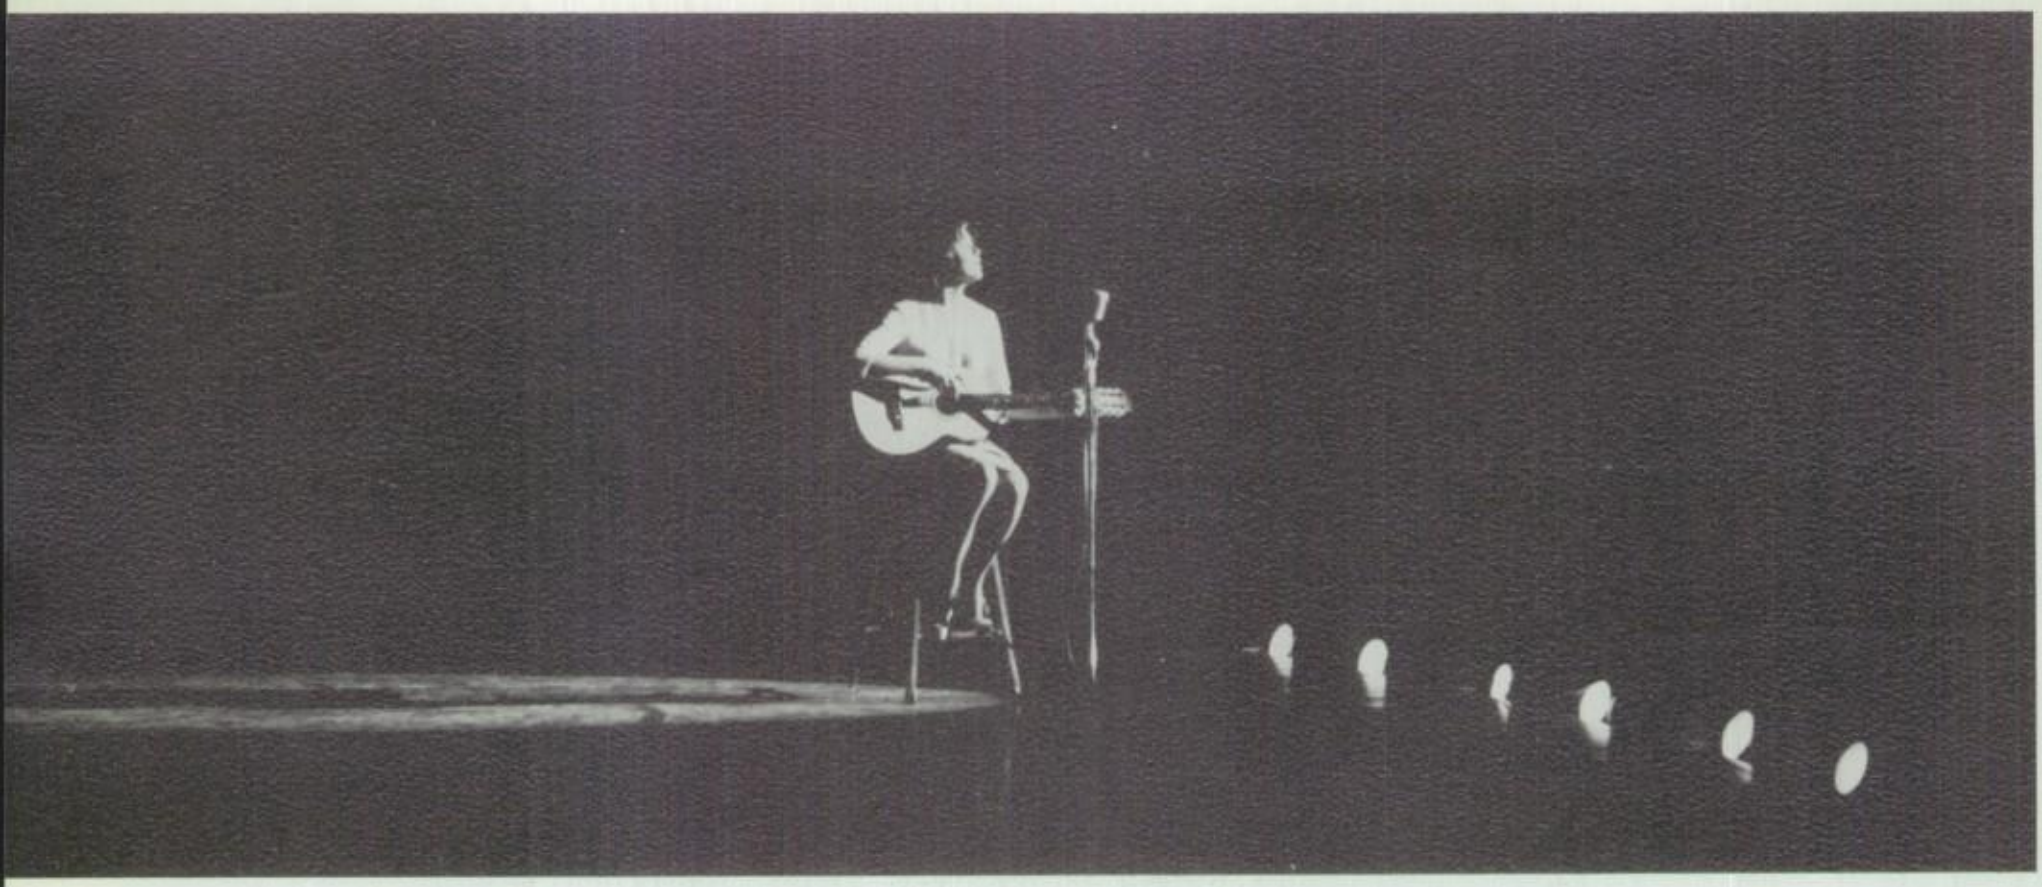
The weeks prior to winter intermission were filled with laughter and serious ceremony. The Confederate staff presented the annual Santa Claus Shop assembly which was entitled "The Wizard of Claus" and was designed to persuade students to donate toys to the needy. The vocal music department featured in their program for the holidays the voices of all choirs in a particularly beautiful and solemn tribute to the season.

Another event during those busy pre-vacation day was Alumni Week. Returning grads had many people to see and many things to remember. Greeted in the main hall by our gaily lighted tree and representatives from the present student body, the former Rebels were served refreshments in the Conference Room. Alums liked to remember the "quiet" high school life that they were a part of.

Rebels spirits were high as always in expectation of vacation and teachers had a hard time keeping our minds on studies during this exciting time. The electric feeling in the air prior to the vacation was remembered long after the vacation itself was forgotten.



Confederate staff decided to go dramatic and their costumes were hilarious.

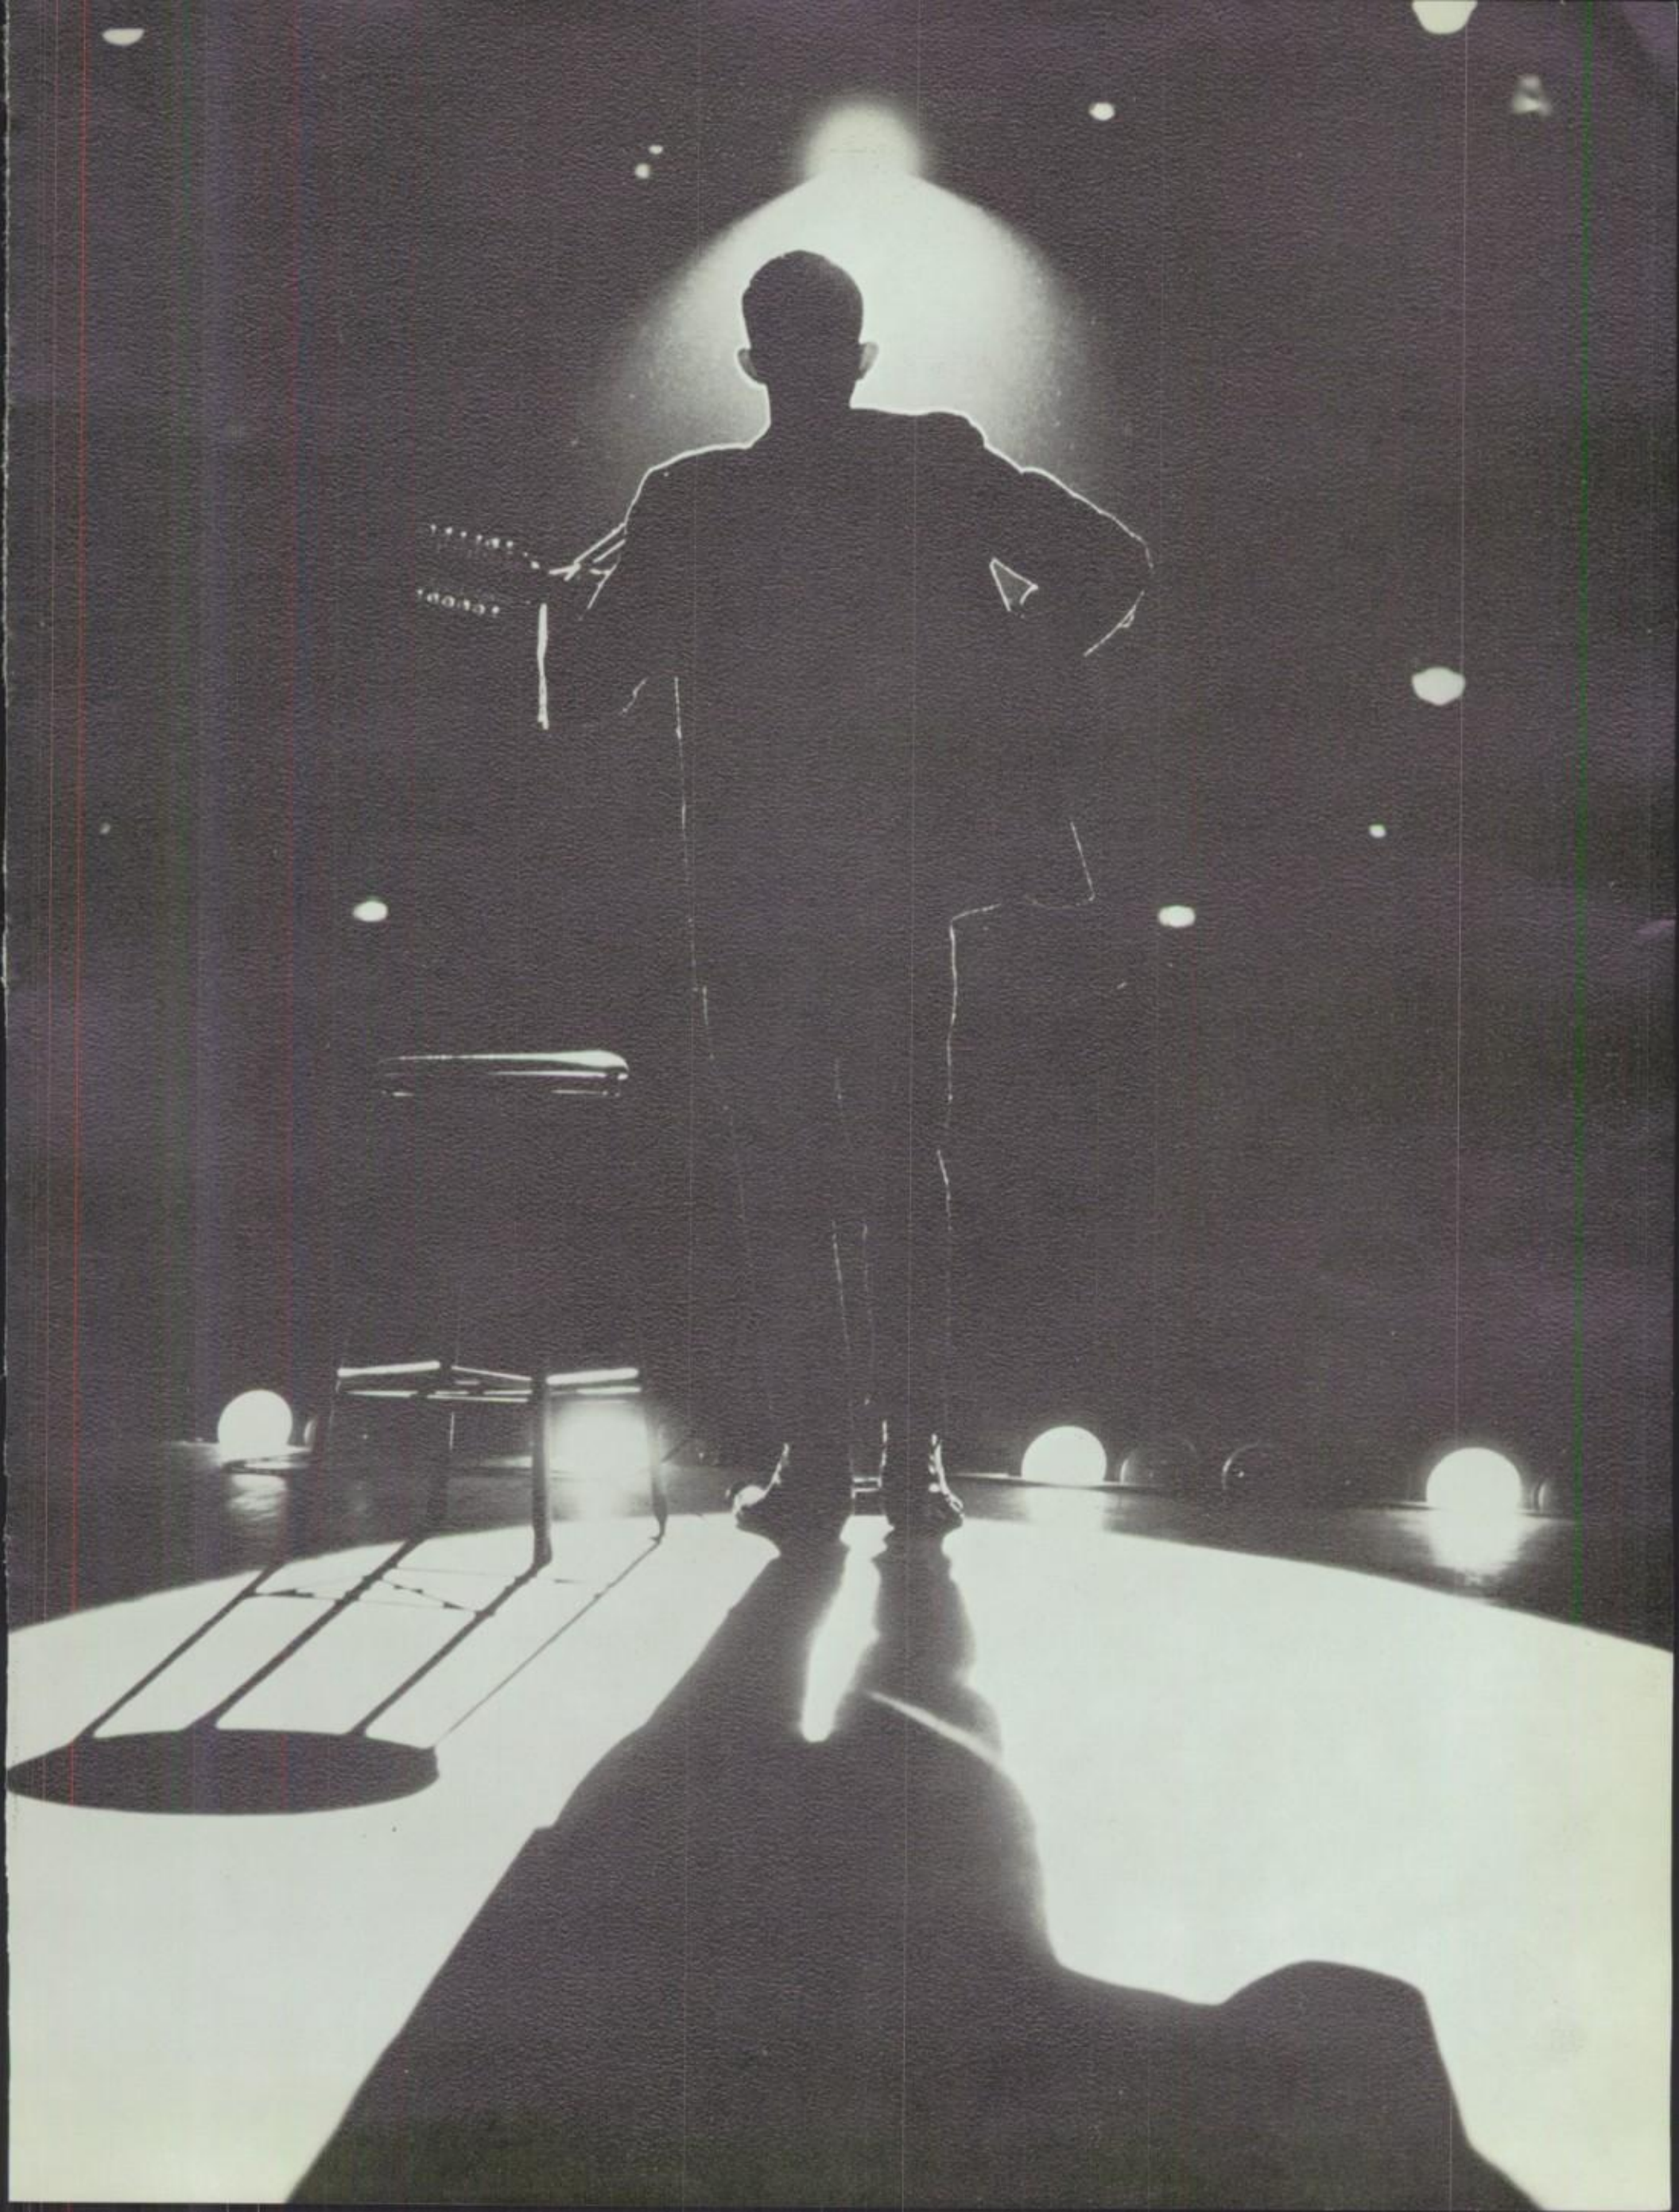


The spotlight seemed a magic place to be to this singer as she held the audience spellbound with her voice.

Many weeks of rehearsing went into acts like this one before they were ready for the audience.

All School Show

Many diverse talents were combined in the two and one-half hours of Rebel Rootenanny. The entertainment included an original musical composition, ballet dancers, a few clowns, folksingers, and the ever popular class dance lines. Each class was fully represented in both the list of cast members and in the backstage crews. Participants reaped large quantities of the special reward for their hard work: applause, praise, and the satisfaction of a job well done.



Many seniors were present to help with the unloading of precious cargo that added to their chances of winning Color Day.

Goodwill Drive

Class competition was at its height as usable articles were collected at the annual Goodwill Drive. Sacks of clothes, old water heaters, ancient cars and radio tubes were carefully transported from hiding places to the parking lot in order to add to the enormous piles collected by each class. Groups of sophomores, juniors and seniors surveyed the work of their adversaries and were each confident that they had won this vital contest for Color Day points.

Juniors surveyed the situation and seemed to ask "Isn't there something more we can add?"

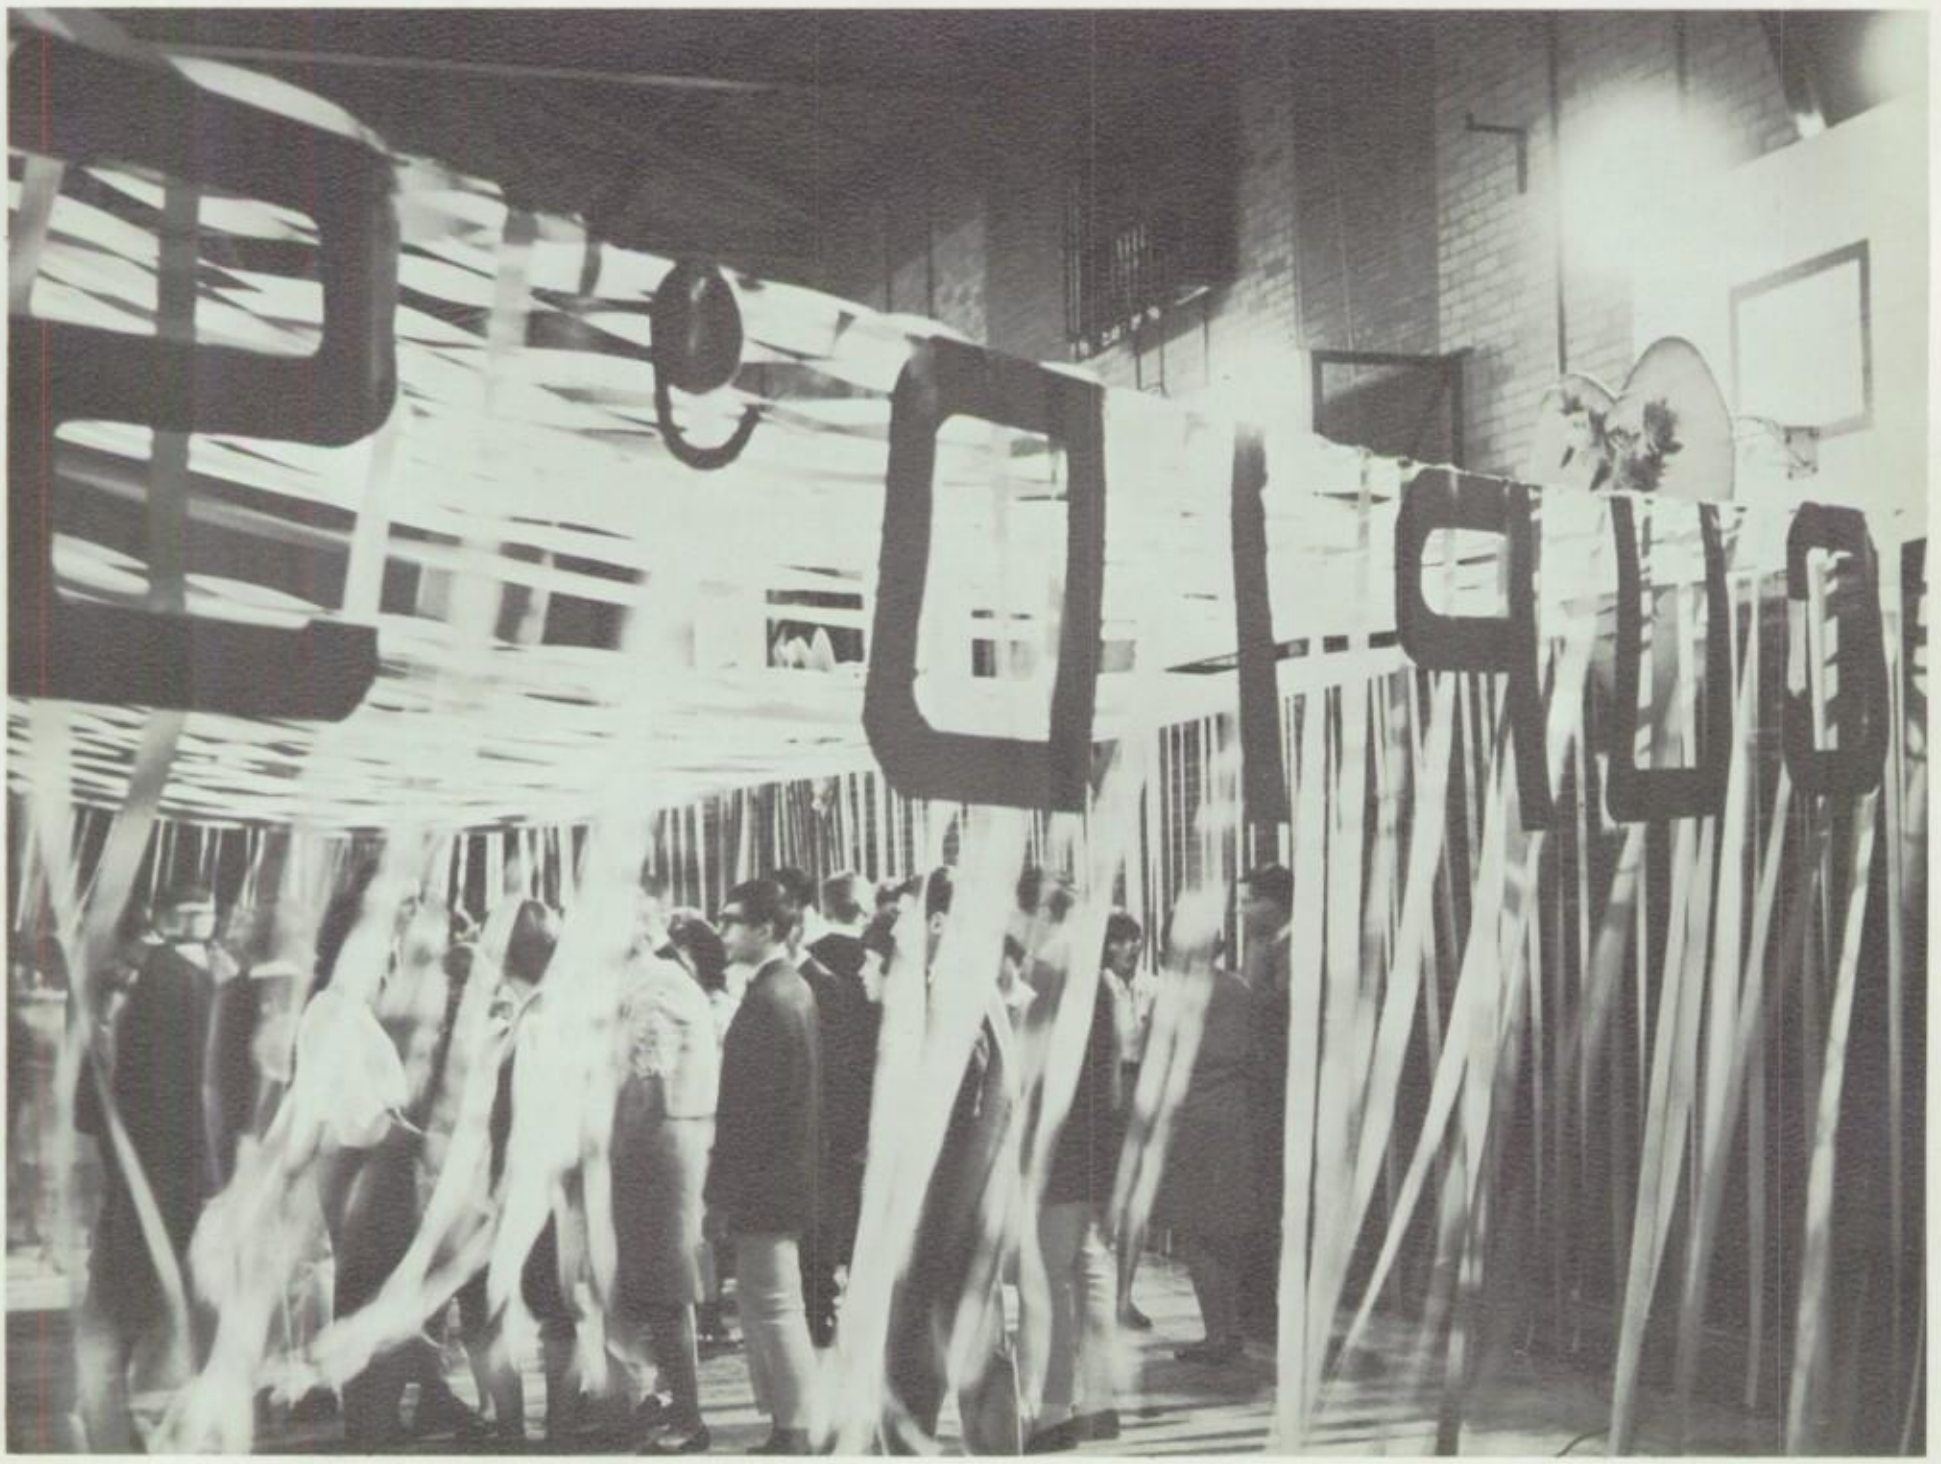
Sophomores learned that walking back and forth is a big part of a Goodwill Drive.

Cupid's Beau

"School girl turned Cinderella" was the mood as a romantic setting and a jazzy band greeted couples attending Cupids Beau, the turn-about dance sponsored by the Junior Red Cross. The hours spent in decorating the boys' gym, the painstaking care taken in the program arrangement and ticket sales, and doubts and fears experienced in planning were brought to a happy ending as those attending danced and laughed from 9:00 to the magic hour of midnight when Cinderella changed back into an ordinary school girl again.

Couples, couples everywhere, but there was plenty of space to dance.

It was a "red" letter dance.



The skill and grace of this stunt amazed the audience.

The music went down and around and it came out all over the place.

Bailey the brute, alias Sunny Lisp'n.

Rallies

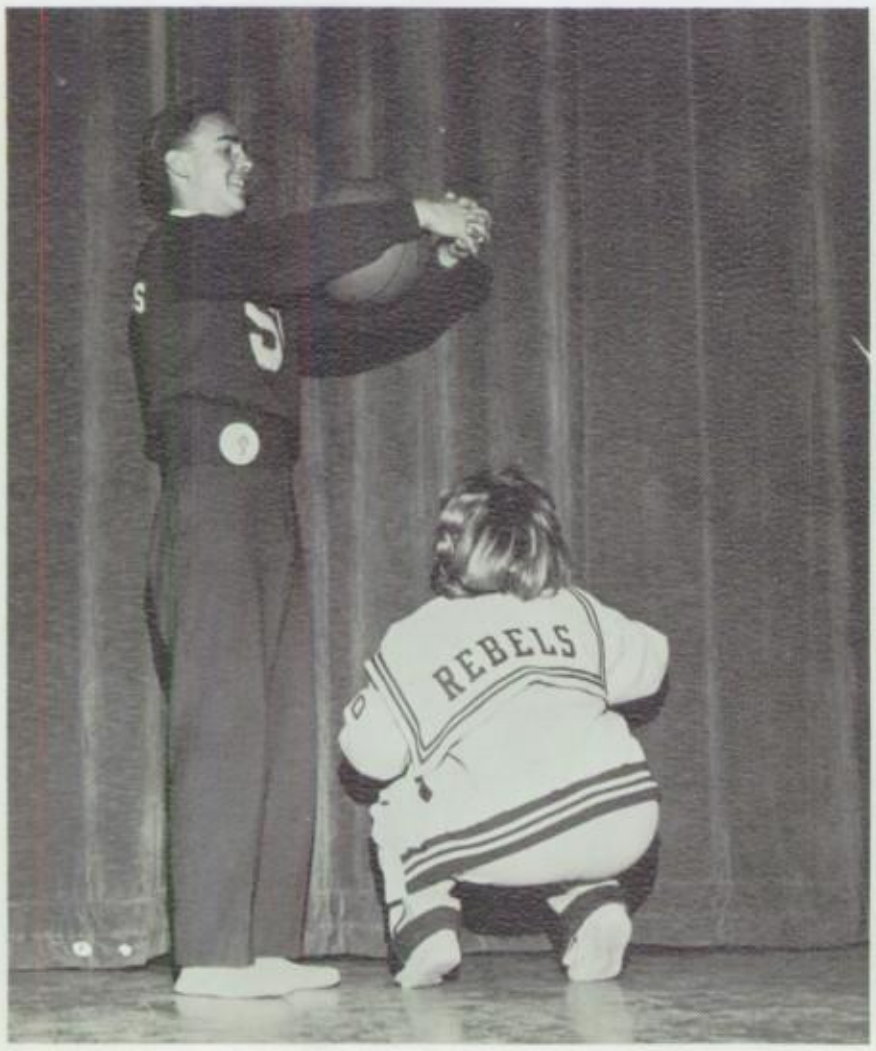
At frequent rallies during each sports season, Rebel cheerleaders and fans blended their voices in cheers designed to bolster team spirit. Skits, "dramatic" plays and beauty pageants were presented by the "S," and Pep Clubs to foretell the future of our puny opponents. Highlights of the year's rallies were "The Fred and Fae Show," "The Miss Rebel Contest," and "Our Version Of The Beatles." Since attendance at rallies was counted for color day points, many students made it a point to come to these lively exhibitions of Rebel unity.

Assemblies

Themes from the serious to the hilarious were present in this year's group of assemblies. Band and orchestra members gave twin programs to invite students to their concerts, and the State Patrol showed movies to encourage them to become safer drivers. Probably the most memorable assembly was that given by the gymnastics squad as they performed difficult, dangerous and graceful stunts for a spellbound audience.

All eyes are on the stage.

Boo Domer sinks a set shot.



Beatles and Basketball?

Interest in this election was great and many students voted for their favorite candidates.

All School Elections

"Out with the old, and in with the new" was the thought of many as all school elections gave sophomores and juniors an opportunity to choose their leaders for the 1964-1965 school year. Gary McDonald welcomed Will Rhodes to the office of head boy and Jane Burgland congratulated Susie Musgrove on her victory as head girl. Elected to help Will and Susie with their duties were Kathy and Geri Montgomery as secretary and treasurer. All of the candidates seemed to be glad that the tension of the race was over and they could settle down to a normal life again.

The winners still couldn't quite believe it as they sang the Alma Mater.

A handshake and a smile were exchanged by Will Rhodes and Gary McDonald as the new head boy was announced.

Head girl Susie Musgrove succeeded Jane Burgland.

Judy Wehrman greets all-school secretary, Kathy Montgomery.

Geri Montgomery comes to the stage as Nancy Tieman reads the results of the race for treasurer.

Graduation

Caps and gowns of black and white characterize the completion of high school for the Class of 1964. As tradition and ceremonies are perpetuated for yet another graduating class, many seniors realize that these final moments are an end—and yet a beginning.

Royalty

Our dreams are bubbles, driven on the wind
to burst upon a corner of reality,
And dreams are stars, the lights which fade
in contrast to the harsher day,
And dreams are playthings, baubles never quite outgrown,
Occasionally realized in the distance from the dawn to dusk.
To snare a dream the dreamer reaches out beyond his sphere of solitude and catches it, lest overripe it fall into the sea—
Others never try, but stay enfolded in the veil of self

. . . the hopeful, hopeless dreamers.

Color Day Royalty

Color Day—the climax of a year's activities and hopes for Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors alike—added another memory to our nostalgic three years. Students, gayly clad in purple and white, attended a special talent assembly in the morning at which the separate class queens were crowned. Contests and an All-City track meet followed in the afternoon. Returning later for an evening of fun, couples danced energetically to the music of Steve Christopher's band.

Counting for Color Day points this year were attendance at Council meetings and rallies, number of students voting, membership gained through the PTA Drive, and the amount collected for the Goodwill Drive. The Senior Class, having the greatest number of points, won Color Day and crowned their queen, Kay Lee Hughes.

Sports

Frozen animation; a trembling awareness of the contest to come, a careful gauging of the foe, and clear eyes glinting in examination of the course ahead.
The moment gone—a burst of energy flings free; space and time fall to fierce assault.
And still tomorrow batters' against the armor
forged today;
The masks of victory and defeat mere grimace,
twisted in blue-white flames to swords
for further conquests.
Beyond today the triumph goes to those who run their best—
or it is lost to some internal flaw

. . . victors, or vanquished.

Cheerleaders

The Rebel athletic teams this year were well represented not only by large crowds, but also by our enthusiastic cheerleaders. Whenever or wherever a touchdown was scored, a basket made, a race won, or any athletic activity contested, at least one of our cheerleaders was on hand to cheer the team or individual on to victory. Though the game was long, the day hot, or the crowd unruly, the cheerleaders maintained their vivacity and supported South unfailingly.

Varsity Football

A low rating this year because of lack of size in the line did not stop the Rebel team from having a successful year. South opened the 1963 season with two consecutive wins, one over Jefferson County 24-0, and the other over North 26-0. In each of these games the team controlled the ball well and left little doubt as to the outcome. The following week, however, was a different story, as the Rebs lost an important game to East 14-0. The team performed well both offensively and defensively, but could not get the right formula to cross the goal line. The next Friday night, the big purple continued to slump in a non-league contest lost to Littleton, 27-26.

Demonstrating true Rebel spirit, the team, coached by Mr. Yates, Mr. Mantooth and Mr. Stransky, regrouped and worked hard to win the game with South's number one rival and daughter, Thomas Jefferson, 7-6. Manual was then beaten 53-6 in the following league contest.

In a long, hot, but well-played gridfest, South next came from behind in the second half to tie Washington 13-13. The game was entirely a defensive one with neither team making more than 150 yards. In the next to last game, Souh was beaten by Lincoln 14-0 in spite of the fact that the team made nearly as many yards as Lincoln. South finished out the season by defeating West 56-0.

Sophomore and Junior Football

Both the sophomore and junior football squads were able to gain much valuable experience on the gridiron this year. While posting a 3-4 record, the sophomores were taught the basic fundamentals of football as well as most of the Rebels' offense and defense by Coaches Conklin and Pagliasotti. The juniors not only posted a record of 5-1-1 to finish second in the city but also added strength to the varsity squad. Coaches Mantooth and Stransky look forward to placing many experienced juniors on the varsity next year.

Tennis

The Rebel tennis squad, led by junior Jim Edwards and sophomore Jerry Berglund and coached by Mr. Mielenz, captured the state crown for the third straight year.

During City play the Purple and White racket-men did not do as well and ended the season in third place behind East and George Washington.

Jim Edwards, number one member of the team, lost only one league match all year, a contest against George Washington. He went on to the state meet in Boulder but was beaten by Alan Loeb of East in the finals. Jerry Berglund, only a sophomore, was number two man this year. He was the only undefeated player in the state during the 1963 season and was champion in number two singles.

Stu Smith and Marc Boone, both seniors, were the doubles team for South and went all the way to the finals in State before being beaten by the Patriots of Washington.

Cross Country

Under the able direction of Coach Frank Mielenz, the Cross Country team won the first two tri-meets during the cross-country season. As the year progressed, however, the team faltered and finished in fifth place in city league competition.

Star harrier was Larry Aurich who paced the team all year and performed in all of the city and state cross country meets. He placed eleventh in city while the team failed to attain a high standing in either city or state meets.

The other track men who competed in all races were Jack Cunningham, Ron Reagon and Bill Glinkman. Members of the team who also ran in some of the meets were Jerry Peters, Bill Shuler, Galen Knop and Kenny Knowles.

Golf

South's golf team won nineteen and lost nine to finish second in the league this year. Coach of the squad was Mr. Mielenz, and Randy Woods served as Captain. This team contained such great depth that when one golfer had a bad day, there was someone else with a winning score, and the Rebels were never shut out.

October 25th marked not only the finish of the 1963 season but also the end of three highly successful high school golfing careers. Randy Woods, George Snead and Lou Janda were three-year lettermen in golf. While at South they have upheld the traditionally high athletic standards.

Although the 1964 basketball season can hardly be deemed a success, the players representing South played well and extremely hard under difficult and trying situations. It is a tribute to them and to Coach Strain that they did not give up but came back from each game to play a stubborn, non-conceding contest the next week.

The Rebels need to have no excuses made for them; in each and every game they played well and fought hard, and an examination of the scores of the games will show that few times were the Rebels outplayed by any large margin. Many games the Purple led the first three periods only to lose in the final minutes.

Those who followed the team this season will agree that South's record is not a measure of the team's ability, and that with a few breaks, the season could have been much different.

Junior and Sophomore

The junior varsity, losing close games and handicapped by lack of height, managed to win only one game during the season. This record, however, doesn't show the effort, spirit, and drive the "J.V.'s" had under the direction of Coach Yates. Eddie Compoz, Ken Dobrovolny and Chuck Folsom were members of the squad who also saw some Varsity action.

The sophomore basketball team had a disappointing season this year, but managed to gain invaluable experience for next year. Coach Mielenz commented that the boys had a good team but couldn't find the winning secret. Bill Hubbell was the outstanding boy, playing both with the Juniors and Varsity.

Swimming

Led by Ron Denslow and Tom Chamberlain and coached by Mr. Crist, the Rebel Swimmers raced and dived to several records this year. Most notable of the achievements were the new times set by junior Chamberlain in the 200 yard free style competition and in the very difficult 100 yard butterfly event. On the strength of Chamberlain and state champion diver Denslow, the swimmers tied for third place in the Denver Prep League, and finished a very respectable fourth in the state meet.

Some of the outstanding members of the team included Captain Dave Stare, Dale Worski, Jerry Kuretich and Dick Witulski in the free style events, Harry Goff and Ron Mustain in diving, and Kent Carney and Ken Logan in the breaststroke. Don Smith and Pat Mendoza also won letters this year.

Wrestling

With three city champions and nine medal winners in the city tourney, South had one of the best wrestling teams in many years. Co-captains Paul Kochiovallos and Bob Bauman, both City Champions, led the Rebel grapplers through individual matches with teams such as State Champion Fruita, through tourneys such as the Fort Collins Invitational, (the toughest pre-seasonal tourney in the state), through the City Championships, and on to the State Meet. The team was edged out of second place by one point in City, and finished among the top fifteen in State.

The fine record displayed by the wrestlers this year does not come as much of a surprise to anyone associated with the sport at South. Since his arrival at South in 1960, Mr. Conklin, with the able assistance of Mr. Pagliosotti, has improved the wrestling record steadily each year. With two B-squad champions, and two B-squad runners-up, next year promises to be no exception.

Baseball

Backed with a strong nucleus from last year's varsity squad and several talented players from the sophomore squad that took City last year, the Rebels experienced a rewarding season. Coach Pagliosotti felt that the squad had not only talent but also had the desire to develop into a winning team. Wayne Snow, a three year letterman in baseball, closed out an outstanding baseball career and will certainly be missed next year.

Track

With several returning junior and senior lettermen on the squad this year, the cindermen were rewarded with a successful season. Some of the outstanding members of the team included Larry Hilbelink and Charlie Beard in track events, and Brian Tepley and Ryan Willett in field events.

Red Cross

Dedicated to helping others, South's Red Cross Organization had a very rewarding year. Among their foremost projects were entertaining children from the Lincoln Housing Project with a football game in the fall, a Christmas party and an Easter party. Every month the group amused patients at Fitzsimmons and at the Veterans' Administration Hospitals. One of their most popular promotions at South was Cupid's Beau Dance, the annual girl-ask-boy affair. Red Cross also participated in the Santa Claus Shop and the International Assistance Drive. Throughout the year it created and maintained among its members a consciousness of the service relationship of the organization to the community.

The large number of toys for Santa Claus Shop, Red Cross' biggest project of the year, draws a pleased reaction from Mary Anne Eagan, Dr. Lonsdale, Starr McLeran and Dencey Jenkins.

Now if I can only manage to get that chocolate cake from Woods . . .

Miss Templeman, sponsor of the group, plots the downfall of another school at the next meet.

Debate Club

Those who participated in Debate Club worked on improving and on expanding their skills in communication through speaking. Competitive oral activities open for expressing the students' own opinions included extemporaneous speaking and original oratory. For those students wishing to express another man's ideas, the interpretation of poetry, and humorous and dramatic interpretations were categories of competition. The other areas open to members were discussion and, of course, formal debate. The club competed against other schools in the city and state for National Forensic League points and awards. The requirement that all members must earn fifteen points during the year kept the members active and interested.

Members of Debate Club, anticipating their next meet, prepare themselves by running through a practice discussion.

Mr. Coley, Sponsor, addresses the members of the Senate Club.

Senate Club

Every other Thursday the Conference Room was filled with members of the South High Senate Club eagerly looking forward to the animated discussions that always followed. Topics covered at meetings during the year included school, local, national and international affairs. Under the direction of Mr. Coley each student gained experience in speaking and expressing his opinions. The small size of the group kept the club on an informal and personal basis. Many times students became so engrossed in a discussion that the meeting had to be continued until the next week. Several members found that Senate Club was one of their most enjoyable and intellectually stimulating organizations.

Tri-Hi-Y

Tri-Hi-Y was the girls' conterpart of Hi-Y. Formed as a service organization, the club sought to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and community the high standards of Christian character. Handing out food baskets to the needy at Christmas and Thanksgiving was one of their main activities. The group was formed by girls who had at least a 2.5 grade average, no E's as a semester mark and no truancies. The club promoted good sportsmanship, speech and scholarship among the girls.

Hi-Y

One of the boys' service organizations at South was Hi-Y, formed to create, maintain and extend a Christian attitude in the home, school, and community. Its purpose was to instill clean speech, sportsmanship and scholarship in all members. One of the many projects the club carried out this year included giving food baskets to needy families at Christmas and Thanksgiving. The club also entered into general service projects for the betterment of the school. A special activity this year was the introduction of a new Hi-Y jacket.

New members of South's IRC found that they belonged to an interesting organization. Every other Tuesday their opinions were challenged and changed by programs which centered on international topics. Programs included movies, guest speakers, and faculty members presenting facts and opinions about topics of domestic and foreign affairs. Students attended several conferences throughout the year to further their knowledge and to exchange ideas with members of international relations clubs from other schools. Members found the club an interesting way to explore the world situation.

Key Club, one of the largest of the many boys' organizations, gave its members an opportunity to perform for the community and the school. One of its main activities during the year was sponsoring the driving test truck which gave interested students a chance to learn how quick their driving reactions were. Other activities included a Kiwanis program and luncheon early in the fall at the Albany Hotel and help for Red Cross with a Christmas party for orphans. The boys of Key Club worked enthusiastically toward raising the standards and traditions of service of boys at South.

Southern Masqueraders

South's Drama Club was active throughout the year helping the drama department with the smooth production of their plays. One of the first activities this year was their presentation of Cinderella for the children's theatre. The group also participated in the Class Day Play. By assisting in the various dramatic activities during the year, either on or back stage, members earned the necessary points to gain admission to National Thespians. Southern Masqueraders learned to appreciate drama as a form of art and to derive pleasure and inspiration from it.

Drama Club students who had earned ten points by participating in dramatic productions formed the membership of National Thespians. These members of Southern Masqueraders who joined Thespians were reminded of the honor by a formal initiation at the beginning of the year. Activities of the theater-minded group included producing, directing, and acting in several plays. The group performed a short skit in All-School Show and gave a choral reading of a poem at Fitzsimmons Hospital. With the direction of Mrs. Nordstrom, Thespians learned to add to and to perfect their dramatic talents.

The club perfected their skills and encouraged individual, original work in science. Their meetings included interesting speakers and experiments which helped to correct the members' mistaken opinions.

Mr. Richards, Sponsor of Chess Club, explains the fundamental rules of the game to a new member.

Chess enthusiasts met every Friday to play chess both competitively and for fun. Instruction was also offered for students who wished to learn how to play the game. Among the year's activities for Chess Club were the establishing of a chess team of the top eight players, the challenging of other schools to chess matches, and participation in the Boetcher Chess Tournament.

Ski Club

Any Rebel willing to risk a broken leg and an extremely depleted treasury for a few days of sun burns and cold joined the Ski Club. While the group looked hopefully at the skies over the mountains for signs of snow, and while they waxed skis, an organizational meeting was held to compile a membership list, elect officers and to make plans for ski events. When the long-awaited snow finally fell, the enthusiastic members piled on a bus for an exhilarating day on the slopes. New skiers learned how to fall, while more experienced ones demonstrated new techniques of tumbling, but all returned eager for the next weekend's trip.

A Saint Bernard, symbol of safety to skiers all over the world, awaits a summons for help from some South victim.

South's skaters practice fancy steps as they roll around the rink.

Rebel Rollers

South High students who had an urge to polish up their childhood sidewalk skating technique joined Rebel Rollers, South's roller skating club. These skating fans, much more dignified than young children's sidewalk skating groups, met at Roller City Central every Wednesday evening during the year. Help and encouragement among the members prepared each of them for the important test of their skating ability.

Girls at South who were interested in swimming jumped into a pool every week along with a lot of other splashing and yelling Aquads. Besides "goofing-off" in a free swimming period, the more experienced swimmers helped beginners to improve their skills while they reviewed and perfected their own. The girls practiced water ballet formations and also brushed up on their life saving. New activities this year included a water show with Abraham Lincoln and swimming meets with the different high schools in the area.

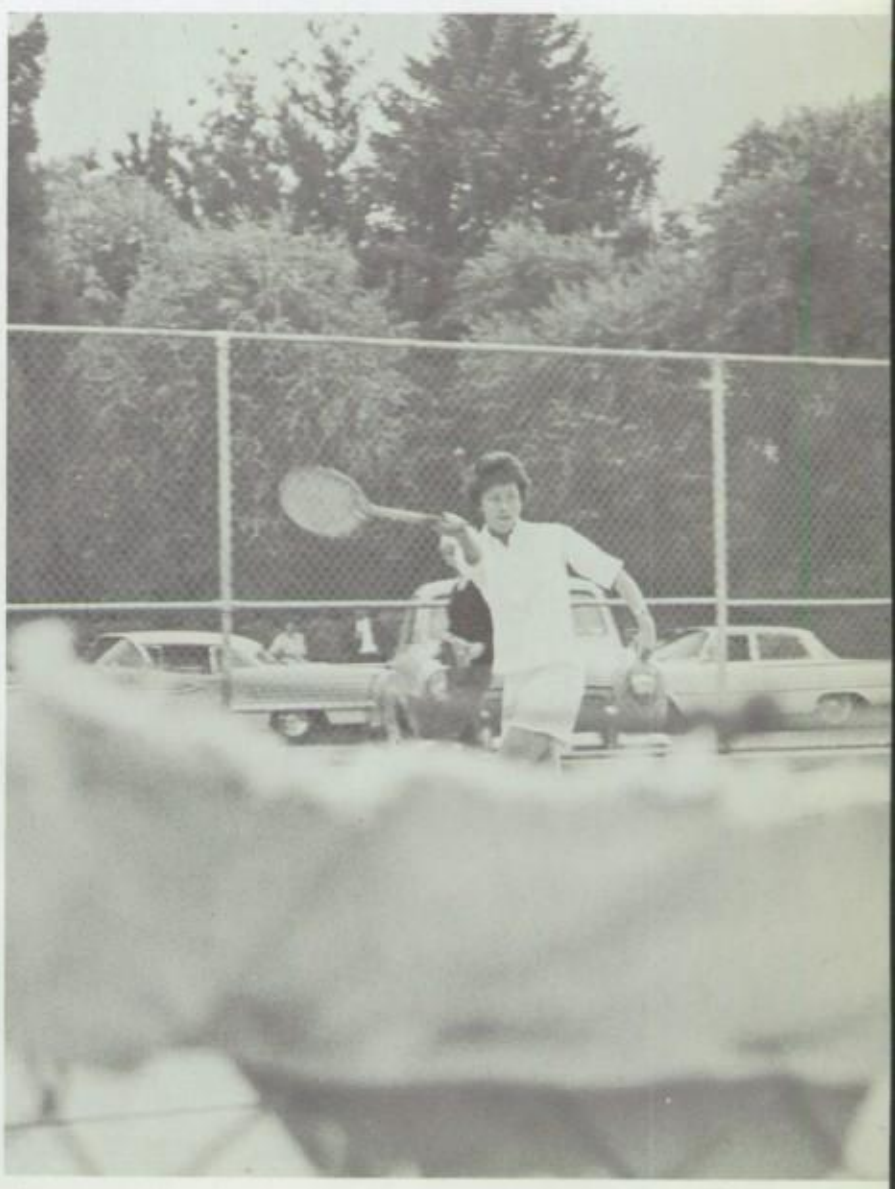
Members of Rabalte had to watch out when their birthdays rolled around as Julie Weber's plight shows.

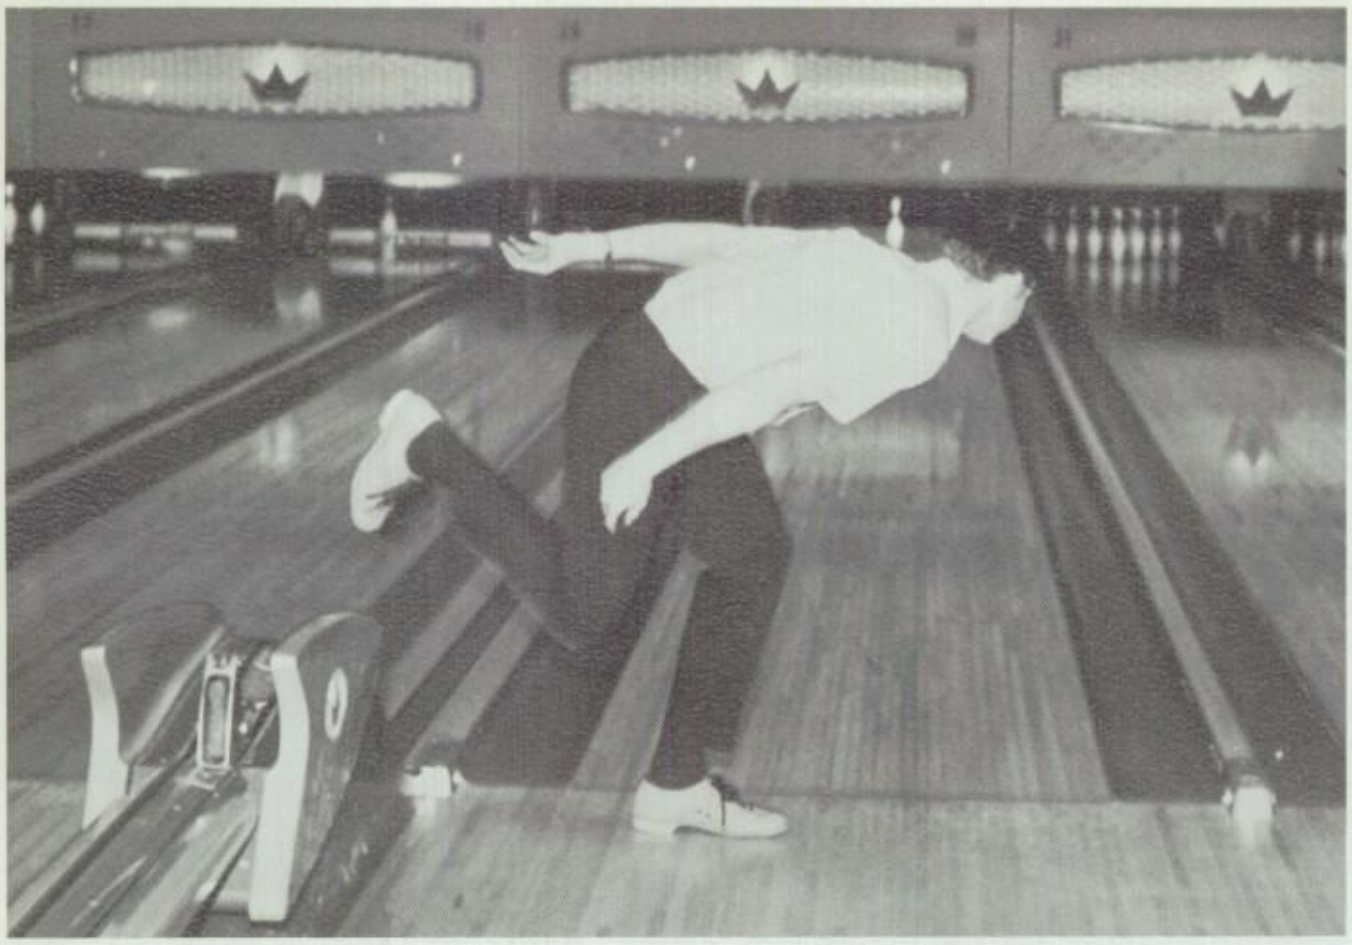
Rabalte

The sound of balls meeting rackets was heard often last fall as the members of Rabalte, South's Girls' Tennis Club, practiced and improved their skills on the courts. The club gave new girls the opportunity to learn the techniques of the game and older members a chance to perfect theirs. A new system was devised this year whereby members could win awards at the end of the season if they had enough points. All girls demonstrated enthusiasm for their game as they gained the satisfaction of developing good coordination and learned the fun of beating an opponent.

Linda Schaeffler, Cindy Carey, Kathie Rowley and Mrs. Gassan are leaders of Rabalte.

President Cindy Carey demonstrates her skill as she moves up to return a serve.





On your mark, get set, go!

Boys' Bowling Club

Strikes, spares and occasional gutter balls confronted South's Boys' Bowling Club every Tuesday during the school year. The tough competition with the group and during meets with other schools encouraged the boys to improve their own game. Participation in local and state tournaments perfected their bowling, preparing them for the annual American Junior Bowling Congress' Mail-o-graphic Tournament in the spring. Everyone agreed the hours devoted to the club were fun-filled and well-spent.

Girls' Bowling Club

Meeting every Monday, this sports-minded group of girls had fun while they improved their bowling in friendly competition among themselves and other groups in Denver. Several times the members bowled against South's Boys' Bowling Club. Instruction was offered for beginners in the sport. To entice each girl to perfect her game and to encourage her to do her best, the club presented trophies for the year's achievement.

Martha McKown, Secretary, keeps track of her team's scores.

Mr. Kurtz, Sponsor of both Girls' and Boys' Bowling Club, adds up a member's score sheet.

Stage Crew

Some of the unsung heroes at South are the members of Stage Crew, who worked long, hard hours to prepare scenery, lighting and sound effects for our many performances during the year. These stage activities included the All-School Show, the Senior Class Play and the Color Day Show. In addition to their regularly scheduled classes during the day, the members and sponsor often worked before and after school to polish and perfect the programs. More of the favorite school functions at which their work was evident were the dances where the stage crew was responsible for setting and removing the lights. Without the stage crew, many of South's favored, enjoyable activities could not be held.

A group of Stage Crew members work together in the fly loft above the stage.

Pom-Pon Girls

Cheers and yells from the student body always greeted the six eager Pom-Pon girls whenever they performed, whether at a rally or during a game. Seemingly tireless, the girls, three juniors and three seniors, never appeared to run out of dances or energy each time the band played. In order to learn the dances, they practiced long, hard hours to produce the spectacular results the Rebels loved. As the girls gathered up their huge crepe paper pom-pons after each performance, the audience demonstrated their enthusiasm with shouts of "Yea, Pom-Pon, Yea, Girls! Yea yea, Pom-Pon Girls!"

Reflections of ecstasy are revealed by Pep Club members as South scores the extra point after a touchdown.

Pep Club

One of the most active and enthusiastic clubs at South High School is the Pep Club. Easily recognized by anyone in their snappy purple and white uniforms were the spirited members in their reserved section at the front of the auditorium and, most important, at the games cheering the boys on to victory. In addition to promoting school spirit the Pep Club performed many other school services. In the fall they sold athletic tickets and shakers and put on the Sophomore Tea for all new sophomore girls. One of their most evident activities was the very successful Homecoming Dance. In the spring members of Pep Club also sponsored a fashion show for girls and their mothers. Throughout the year the girls ushered and served at plays and P.T.A. meetings. Probably the most noticed Pep Club girls were the six vibrant Pom-Pon girls who were selected by the club.

Pep Club Council

The twenty members of Pep Club who composed the Pep Club Council were responsible for the governing of the club and ensured the smooth running of South's largest organization. Meeting several times a month, the group decided on many of the regulations that determined membership and retention in the club, such as the number of games a member of Pep Club must attend to earn the points necessary for two and one-half hours credit. Elected in the preceding spring, the girls, both juniors and seniors, were the chairmen of all the committees in the organization.

Concert Choir

The reputation of the Concert Choir for its impressive and beautiful a cappella music is the pride of South, for no other choir is as skilled in its work and as devoted to creating musical perfection. The group worked hard to create and maintain their reputation which gained them many invitations to perform throughout the community during the year. They were especially in demand during the Christmas holidays. Under the new direction of Mrs. Williams, their performances proved to be inspirations that both students and other audiences will never forget.

Girls' Ensemble

The blue choir robes of Girls' Ensemble were a familiar sight at many of South's musical performances. The girls spent many hours perfecting renditions of their repertoire, which included both classical and religious selections. The choir was very busy this year, having more performances outside of school than at South. Their sparkling voices entertained at several women's clubs and church organizations. The girls also entertained at Lowry Air Force Base during Christmas. As the girls performed, they received the gratitude and admiration of their classmates and audiences. Participation in this choir was truly a memorable experience of the year at South.

Bach Choir

Bach Choir was designed to acquaint its members with the best in choral literature and to increase this vocal ability. Selected in the spring after numerous auditions, Bach Choir met in the fall to organize as a group for its upcoming performances. The choir practiced hard at weekly sectionals as well as in school to perfect their repertoire. Under the able direction of Miss Swenson, the group performed at meetings of church and civic organizations in addition to their singing at school during various assemblies.

Orchestra

Concert Orchestra worked many hard hours in daily class at school as well as in rehearsals outside of school to perfect its repertoire of classical and semi-classical arrangements. Many of its members were chosen to play in All-City and All-State orchestras. Under the talented direction of Mr. Goff, the orchestra improved their skills and developed a greater appreciation of music. The orchestra provided popular selections for a number of school assemblies. The group also entertained audiences outside of school by playing at The Association of School Business Administrators.

Band

Gaily dressed in purple and white uniforms, South's Concert Band provided music for rallies, games and parades and added to the spirit of the school. Talented soloists entered the festival at Denver University and were rated according to their abilities. The South High Show Band, chosen from members in Concert Band, performed at the All-School Show to the delight of the audience. Several members were chosen to participate in the All-City Concert Band. South was also represented in the All-State Concert Band. The band helped to improve the musical techniques of its members and also provided the opportunity to perform before audiences at South, other schools and the community.

"From the diaphragm, please!"

"Come on, Kids, I know it's Bach . . . ."

Many hours were spent in practicing for the performing choirs.

Miss Swenson stops tabulating attendance records to listen to a student.

Bach choir members slaved at many sectionals during the year to perfect their music.

"Snap to it, mister!" can be heard above the background noise of marching feet. This command comes from the R.O.T.C. hall, located in the new addition.

The cadets of the Reserve Officer Training Corps learn about the organization of the United States Army. South's R.O.T.C. program includes four companies, a color guard, rifle team, drill team, and a group of honorary cadets. A South cadet's curriculum consists of training in military tactics, use of a rifle, discipline, and good citizenship. With the proper training and a grade of "B" in every subject, a cadet may become a commissioned officer, having the responsibility of training cadets under him.

Competitive activities are also part of the vigorous training the cadets receive. The Color Guard posts the flag in front of the school daily, at assemblies, special programs, and athletic events. R.O.T.C. also has its social side with an annual military ball held in the fall. The Honorary Cadets, who are chosen for scholastic achievement and interest, assist in clerical work, morale building, and drill competitions.

Sophomore Class Council members discuss plans for the Goodwill Drive.

In the fall of 1963 a new Sophomore Class was formed as a step toward furthering its education. The strangeness of the surroundings and the bewilderment of the activities caused timid feelings during the first week. Slowly the confusion diminished, and there was the eager feeling of becoming a part of South. Through education and activities, the sophomores gained social experience and an intangible desire for education.

Entering rallies at the doors marked "Sophs" gained color day points for the Sophomore class.

Junior Council members vote on a name for the Prom.

"Knowledge gained today lights the path of tomorrow." These words express the drive and ambition that flowed through the Junior class and created the spark of enthusiasm evident in all the activities of the year. From planning the Prom, to collecting Goodwill, the juniors took pride in being a part of South and strove to make theirs "the class that's really alive"—the class of '65.

Strong competition challenged the juniors in their collection of articles for the Goodwill drive.

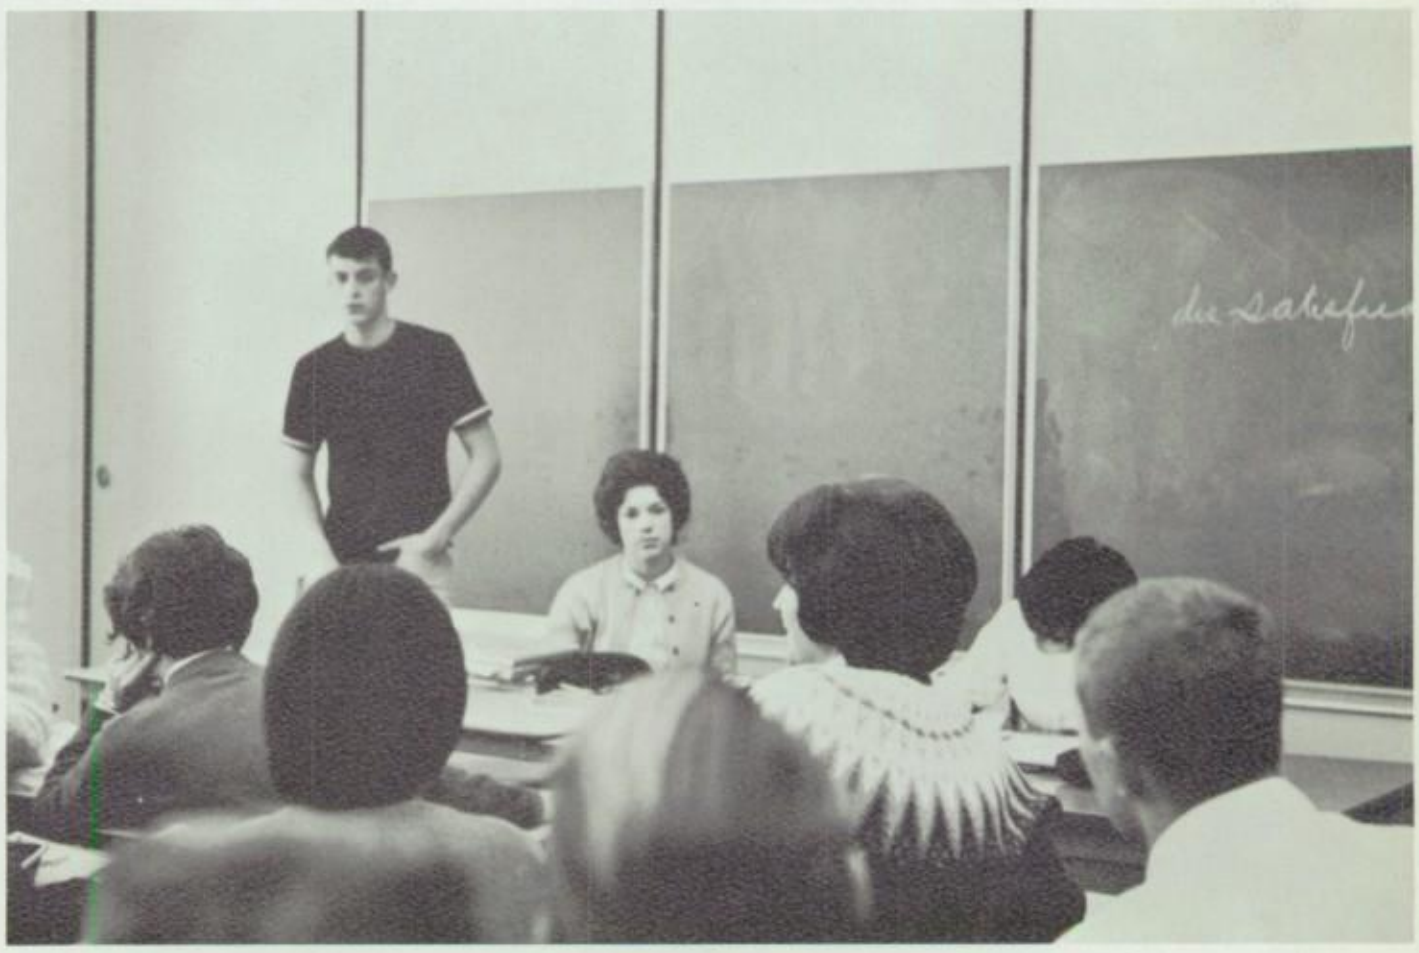
Judging from the title of the sophomore dance in 1961, "Outward Bound," and the class motto for the past three years, "You challenge today, tomorrow challenges you," the Class of 1964 is planning ahead. We have equipped ourselves to conquer the future by understanding better the true value of education. Each year here at South we have had capable, experienced leaders both among teachers and students. Now we have left the games, councils, plays, dances, and classes behind to proceed in the outward bound quest—the challenge of tomorrow.



Early morning Council doldrums.

Rebel Rousers

The Rebel Rousers are the outstanding members of the senior class. They are those who have made special contributions to the school in the areas of academics or sports, in clubs or school activities. Rebel Rousers were nominated by all members of the faculty. Although there were many who deserved recognition, it was impossible to include all of them. The final selection was made by a committee of faculty members representing all the departments. These exceptional seniors are honored as Rebel Rousers of 1964.

Roy Bartee
Rebel Rouser

The tall, arresting figure in the much be-medaled military uniform was Roy, Lieutenant Colonel, Battalion Commander at South, and the highest ranking cadet. Roy also played a general in "No Time for Sergeants," South's contest play last year. Despite all of this military training, Roy found time to belong to Pre-Med Club, to be vice-president of Science Club, and to be a Concert Choir section leader. He also maintained a grade average that gained him membership in Triple S.

It's been great knowing you in Concert Choir this past year

Larry Connors
Rebel Rouser

The coughing, nicotine-addicted Father Bear in the Thespians' skit in the All-School Show this year was delightfully played by Larry. In addition to his drama work, Larry was vice-president of Debate Club and achieved a membership in National Forensic League. He was elected president of Triple S and was an active member of I.R.C. He has also served on class councils, and last summer he was selected to represent South at Boys' State.

Many attractive signs and bulletin boards around the school were designed and executed by Cherie, Art Editor for both the Johnny Red and the Cub-federate edition of the newspaper. Last year she drew the doorway on the Johnny Reb cover. Always obliging, Cherie frequently pitched in to do some typing or organizing to meet deadlines. Cherie is also Publications Editor for F.T.A., and belonged to Spanish Club. Teachers speak highly of Cherie's class work which has earned her membership in Triple S.

Harold is a person very easy to be acquainted with, as at the slightest opportunity he will air his erudite opinions on God, Mother, Country, and his future plans. In addition to having one of the highest grade averages in the school, Harold played on the basketball team. Harold is vice-president of Key Club and belongs to the Math and Science Clubs. In his spare time he plays the piano and composes music.

Howard was an "all-around guy," strong on the academic side (he took accelerated courses) and skillful on the sophomore baseball team. In addition to serving as manager of the football team this year, Howard was a member of I.R.C., Key Club and "S" Club. Last year he sang in Bach Choir and this year in Concert Choir.

Eddy was one of South's real fighters—in wrestling he often grappled, and beat, opponents much larger than he. He was also one of our valuable football players. Off the field Eddy continued to support sports as a member of "S" Club. Well-liked by everyone, Eddy was corresponding secretary of Key Club. On weekends his friends could find him schussing down the slopes and joking with the rest of Ski Club on the bus.

Many people will recognize Evert as the toga-togged Mr. De Pinna of this year's mid-winter production of "You Can't Take It With You." This was only one of the leading roles he has portrayed while maintaing a Triple S average and holding a job at Eugene Field Library. In his spare time Evert plays the piano, hoping to become the conductor of an orchestra after graduation from college.

As News Page Editor of the Confederate, Kathy could often be found in Room 252 engaged in a serious debate over a news story or a hysterical rehearsal for the Santa Claus Shop Assembly. During her years at South, Kathy contributed willing service to many school organizations. She was secretary of Dixieland Diplomats, ICC representative from Folk Song Club, and a member of Pep Club Council. She also belonged to Quill and Scroll, the honorary national journalism society.

Dwight Frankfather
Rebel Rouser

Dwight was not only one of South's star members on our wrestling team, but also contributed wholeheartedly in cross country, track and gymnastics. He is backed by his teachers as a good, solid, hard-working student. He belongs to "S" Club, as well as to Key Club and Hi-Y. Between his training hours, Dwight found time to be an active member of Concert Band.

Mary Lay
Rebel Rouser

Mary, who was the possessor of one of the highest academic averages in this year's class, was known to her friends for her great sincerity and quiet good humor. She contributed her writing talents to Folio Leaves and enthusiastically supported South as a member of the Pep Club. Her thoughtful opinions and keen interest in current affairs made her a valuable participant in IRC and Teenage Republicans. She also held memberships in ICC and Triple S.

JoAnn McFarland
Rebel Rouser

JoAnn was one of the honorary cadets of R.O.T.C. and a member of Drill Team, which devoted much of its time to perfecting the snappy routines performed in the annual marching competition. In the Freedom Shrine Assembly and in the Shafroth and Sojourners speaking contests, she spoke with conviction on American ideals and world affairs. In addition to her speech activities, which qualified her for membership in Debate Club, she participated in Future Teachers of America and Bach Choir.

Dinah Moon
Rebel Rouser

As Rheba in "You Can't Take It With You" Dinah was a real commedienne, the maid who could never become a toe-dancer because "I got corns!" Always cheerful, even at early morning rehearsals, Dinah found time to be the I.C.C. representative for Aquads and secretary-treasurer of Drama Club. Her extensive work in dramatics has gained her membership in National Thespians. Dinah works diligently at her studies and is a member of Triple S.

Sarah Morris
Rebel Rouser

As Editor of the Johnny Reb, Sarah stoically accepted news of the overdrawn photo budget, delayed pages, and lost pictures, and skillfully dealt with irate photographers, crabby publishers, talkative coffee-drinking sponsors, and editors invariably gone from deadlines on dates. In the early mornings, after staff had cleared out, Sarah pitched into her homework and maintained an outstanding academic record. She also found time to participate in Debate Club, and Drama Club, and was president of Quill and Scroll, I.C.C. representative from I.R.C. and a delegate to Girls' State.

Seniors

Virginia, has been such a fun Concert Mistress this year, good luck always, all your friends

Cyndy Schaefer
Rebel Rouser

Talented Cyndy Schaefer held many noteworthy positions in school. She was Concert Mistress (first chair violinist) of the orchestra and one of the outstanding sopranos of Concert Choir. She has in addition played many leading dramatic roles. The ICC representative for Drama Club and Secretary-Treasurer for National Thespians, Cyndy also maintains a Triple S average and in her junior year was elected Prom Princess.

Nancy Jo Smead
Rebel Rouser

Energetic and always cheerful, Nancy was outstanding for her participation in many activities at South. In Senior Drama's second presentation of the year, "You Can't Take It With You," she gave a memorable performance as Gay Wellington, the zany, inebriated actress. Her dramatic activities earned her a membership in National Thespians as well as in Southern Masqueraders. An assistant editor of the Johnny Reb she was responsible for the poetry which appeared on the division pages. She also found time to be an active member of Debate Club and of Quill and Scroll while maintaining a high academic average.

Stu Smith
Rebel Rouser

If you see a black Beatle wig or a bear suit going down the hall, chances are Stu's under it. Not only was Stu a vital part of our baseball and basketball teams, but he was captain of the tennis team and became an All-City player. On the academic side, Stu was editor of the Confederate and a member of Quill and Scroll, Chess Club and Teenage Republicans.

Always surrounded by the distractions of feminine companionship, Cary nevertheless managed to do an excellent job as Managing Editor of the Confederate. His literary abilities also earned him the vice-presidency of Folio Leaves. In discussion groups in I.R.C. and Triple S, Cary's opinions were appreciated by his fellow members. Any remaining spare time Cary spent in practicing the bass viol for Concert Orchestra.

Linda Stone
Rebel Rouser

Linda was frequently seen toting her viola case down the hall to and from Concert Orchesta rehearsals. Linda has also played in the All-City orchestra for three years and in the All-State this year. As president of Folio Leaves, she is one of the outstanding creative writers at South. She supported the school by participating in Pep Club, and organized a Color Day Program. In Triple S, as in the classroom, Linda frequently contributed her ideas to discussions with her classmates.

Kate Toll
Rebel Rouser

Whether reciting Catullus, playing bridge during a lunch hour, discussing Plato in Senior Hall, conducting a Physics experiment in the lab, or giving a hilarious performance in Senior Drama, Kate displayed the qualities that earned her recognition as a truly outstanding Rebel Rouser. She was president of National Thespians, secretary of IRC, vice-president of Triple S, and an active member of Folio Leaves and Debate Club. In addition to her many activities, she achieved one of the best academic records in the senior class.

Georgeanne Von Vihl
Rebel Rouser

Georgeanne is one of the busiest people in South High, rushing here and there with a smile for everyone as she fulfills her duties as president of Pep Club, an Honorary Cadet and a singer in Concert Choir. Last year she was secretary of Girls' Ensemble and an active member of Future Teachers of America, Tri-Hi-Y and Teenage Republicans. Outside of school Georgeanne has received national recognition for her work in 4-H. Even so, Georgeanne used her study time efficiently and achieved the academic rating necessary to be a member of Triple S.

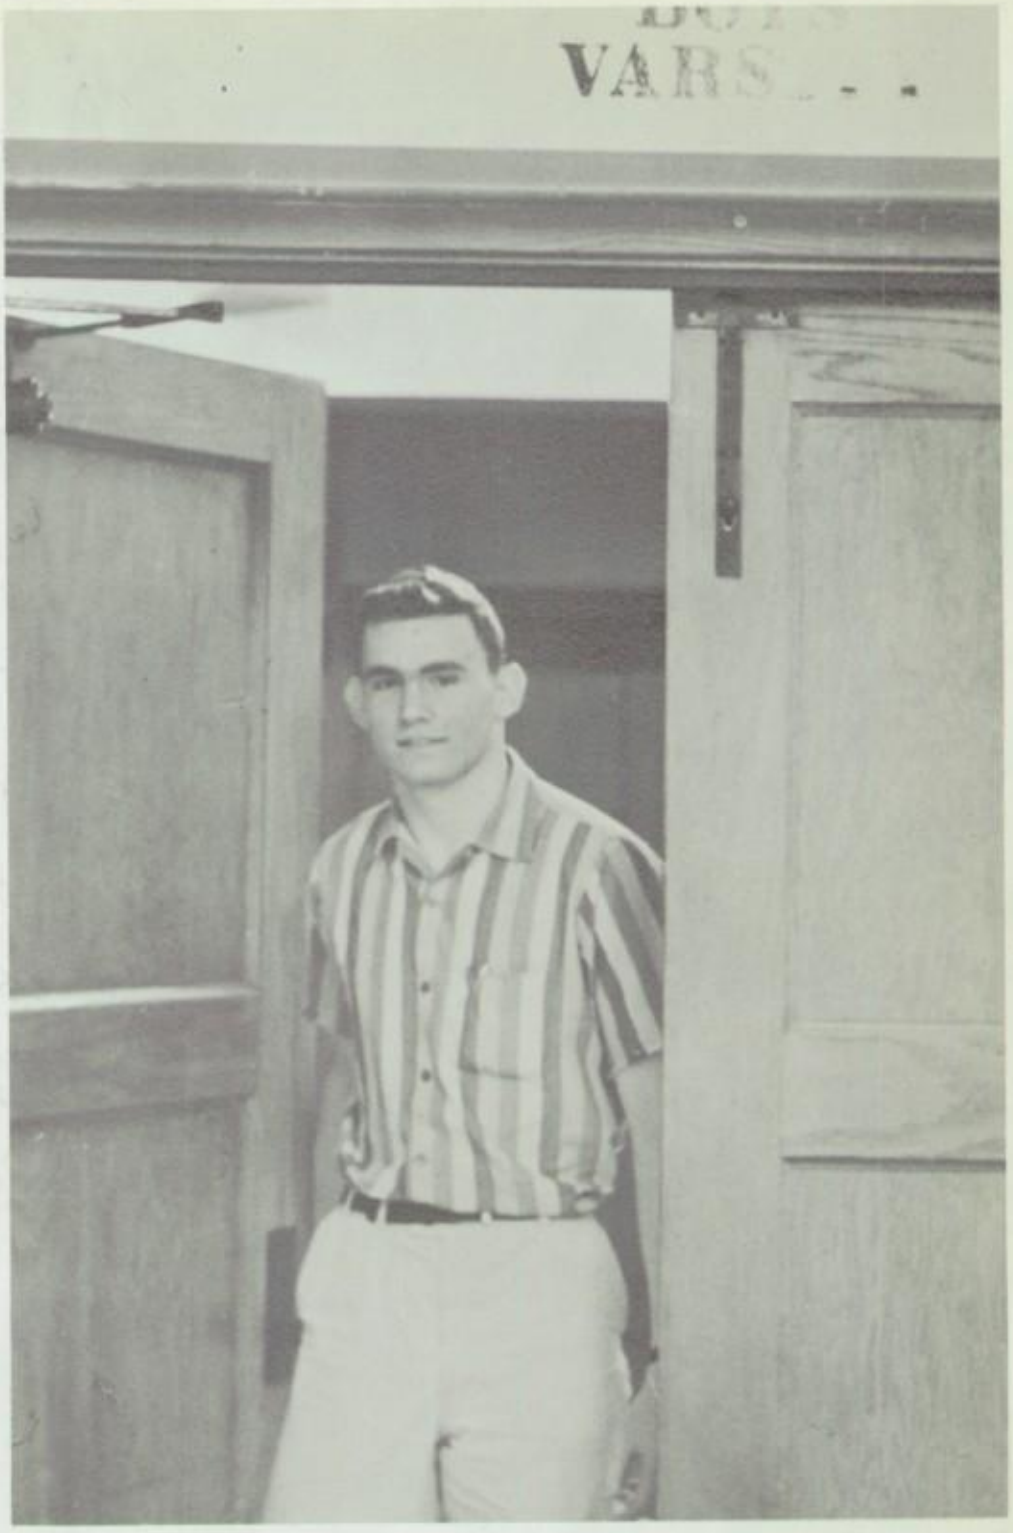
Virginia -
Remember Jim Reeders group. Of course I'm sure you'll always remember Concert so I'm sure I will too. Be happy and good luck in the future!
Bill



Ryan Willett
Rebel Rouser

In his quiet way, Ryan was truly one of South's all-around boys. He was on South's varsity teams in football, track and wrestling, and was also a National Merit Scholarship Program semi-finalist. Outside of school Ryan loved to ski and in school he was an active member of both "S" and Ski Clubs. In addition, Ryan joined the exotic, "way-out" group of South—Folk Song Club.

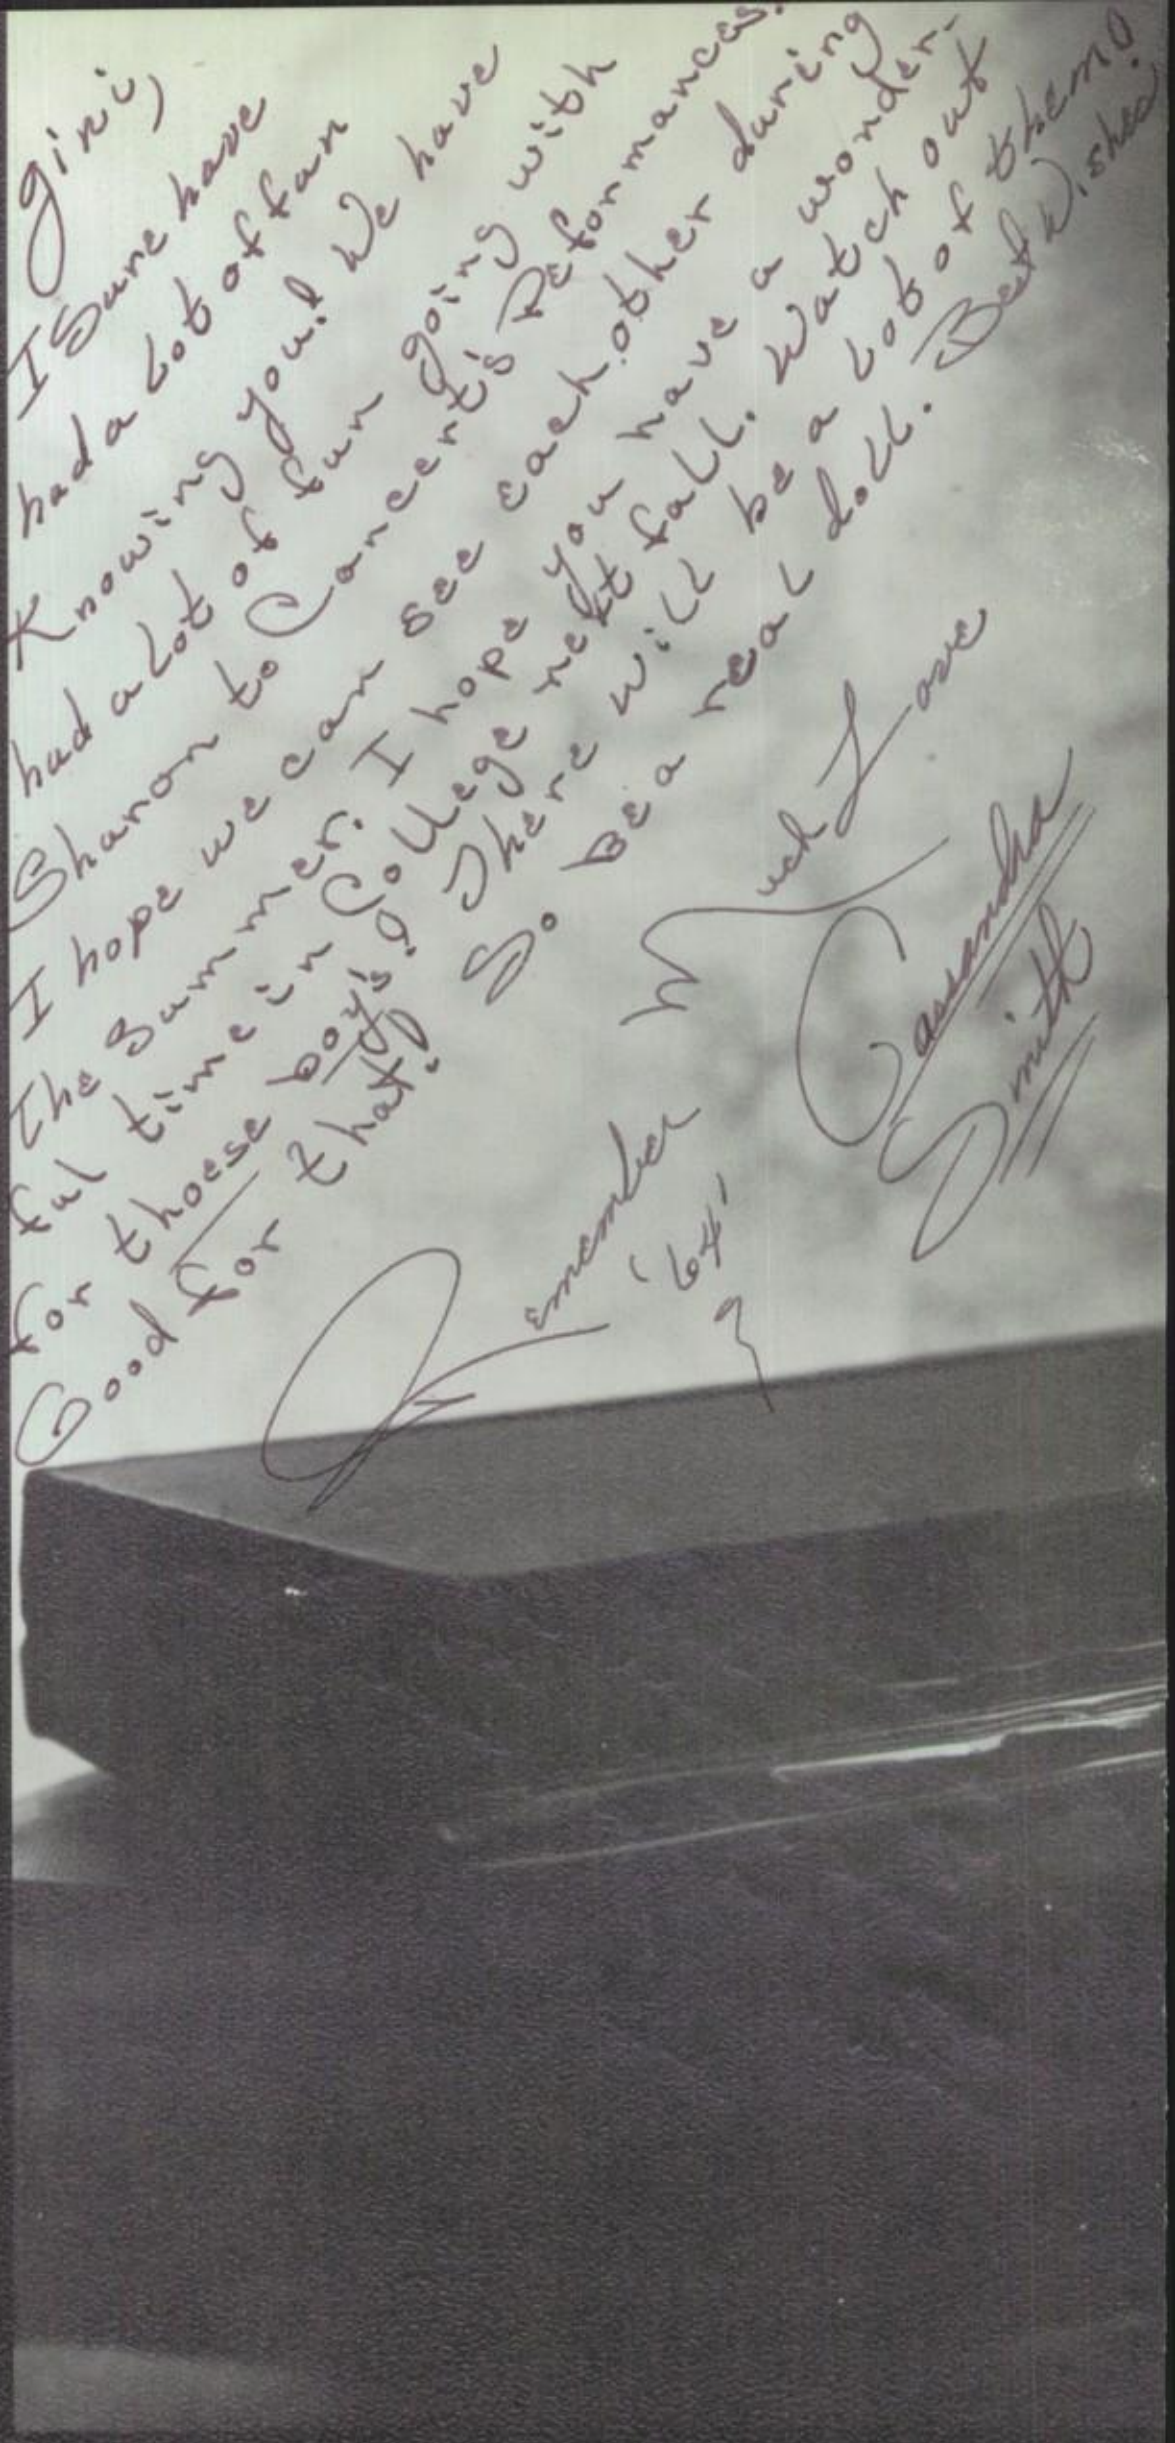
Senior Memories



Gini,
I Sure have had a lot of fun Knowing you! We have had a lot of fun going with Sharon to Concerts & Performances! I hope we can see each other during the Summer. I hope you have a wonderful time in College & College will be a lot of fun for those boys! Watch out for them! There will be a real doll. Best Wishes
So Be a real doll.
Love
Samantha Smith
remember
'64

The doll is peaceful as she lies forgotten, shoeless, with her limbs askew, still smiling underneath her tangled hair—
A little car, its red paint scratched, playworn to show the metal, rusts now, silently, Remembered only in the quiet just before the night when there is time for looking back, reflecting what has gone before, and dreaming of the life ahead.
The student, turned from playing pranks
to writing essays on Thoreau, will yet look back on games and dates
While sands still fall, as suddenly he understands those passages in Kipling's IF—

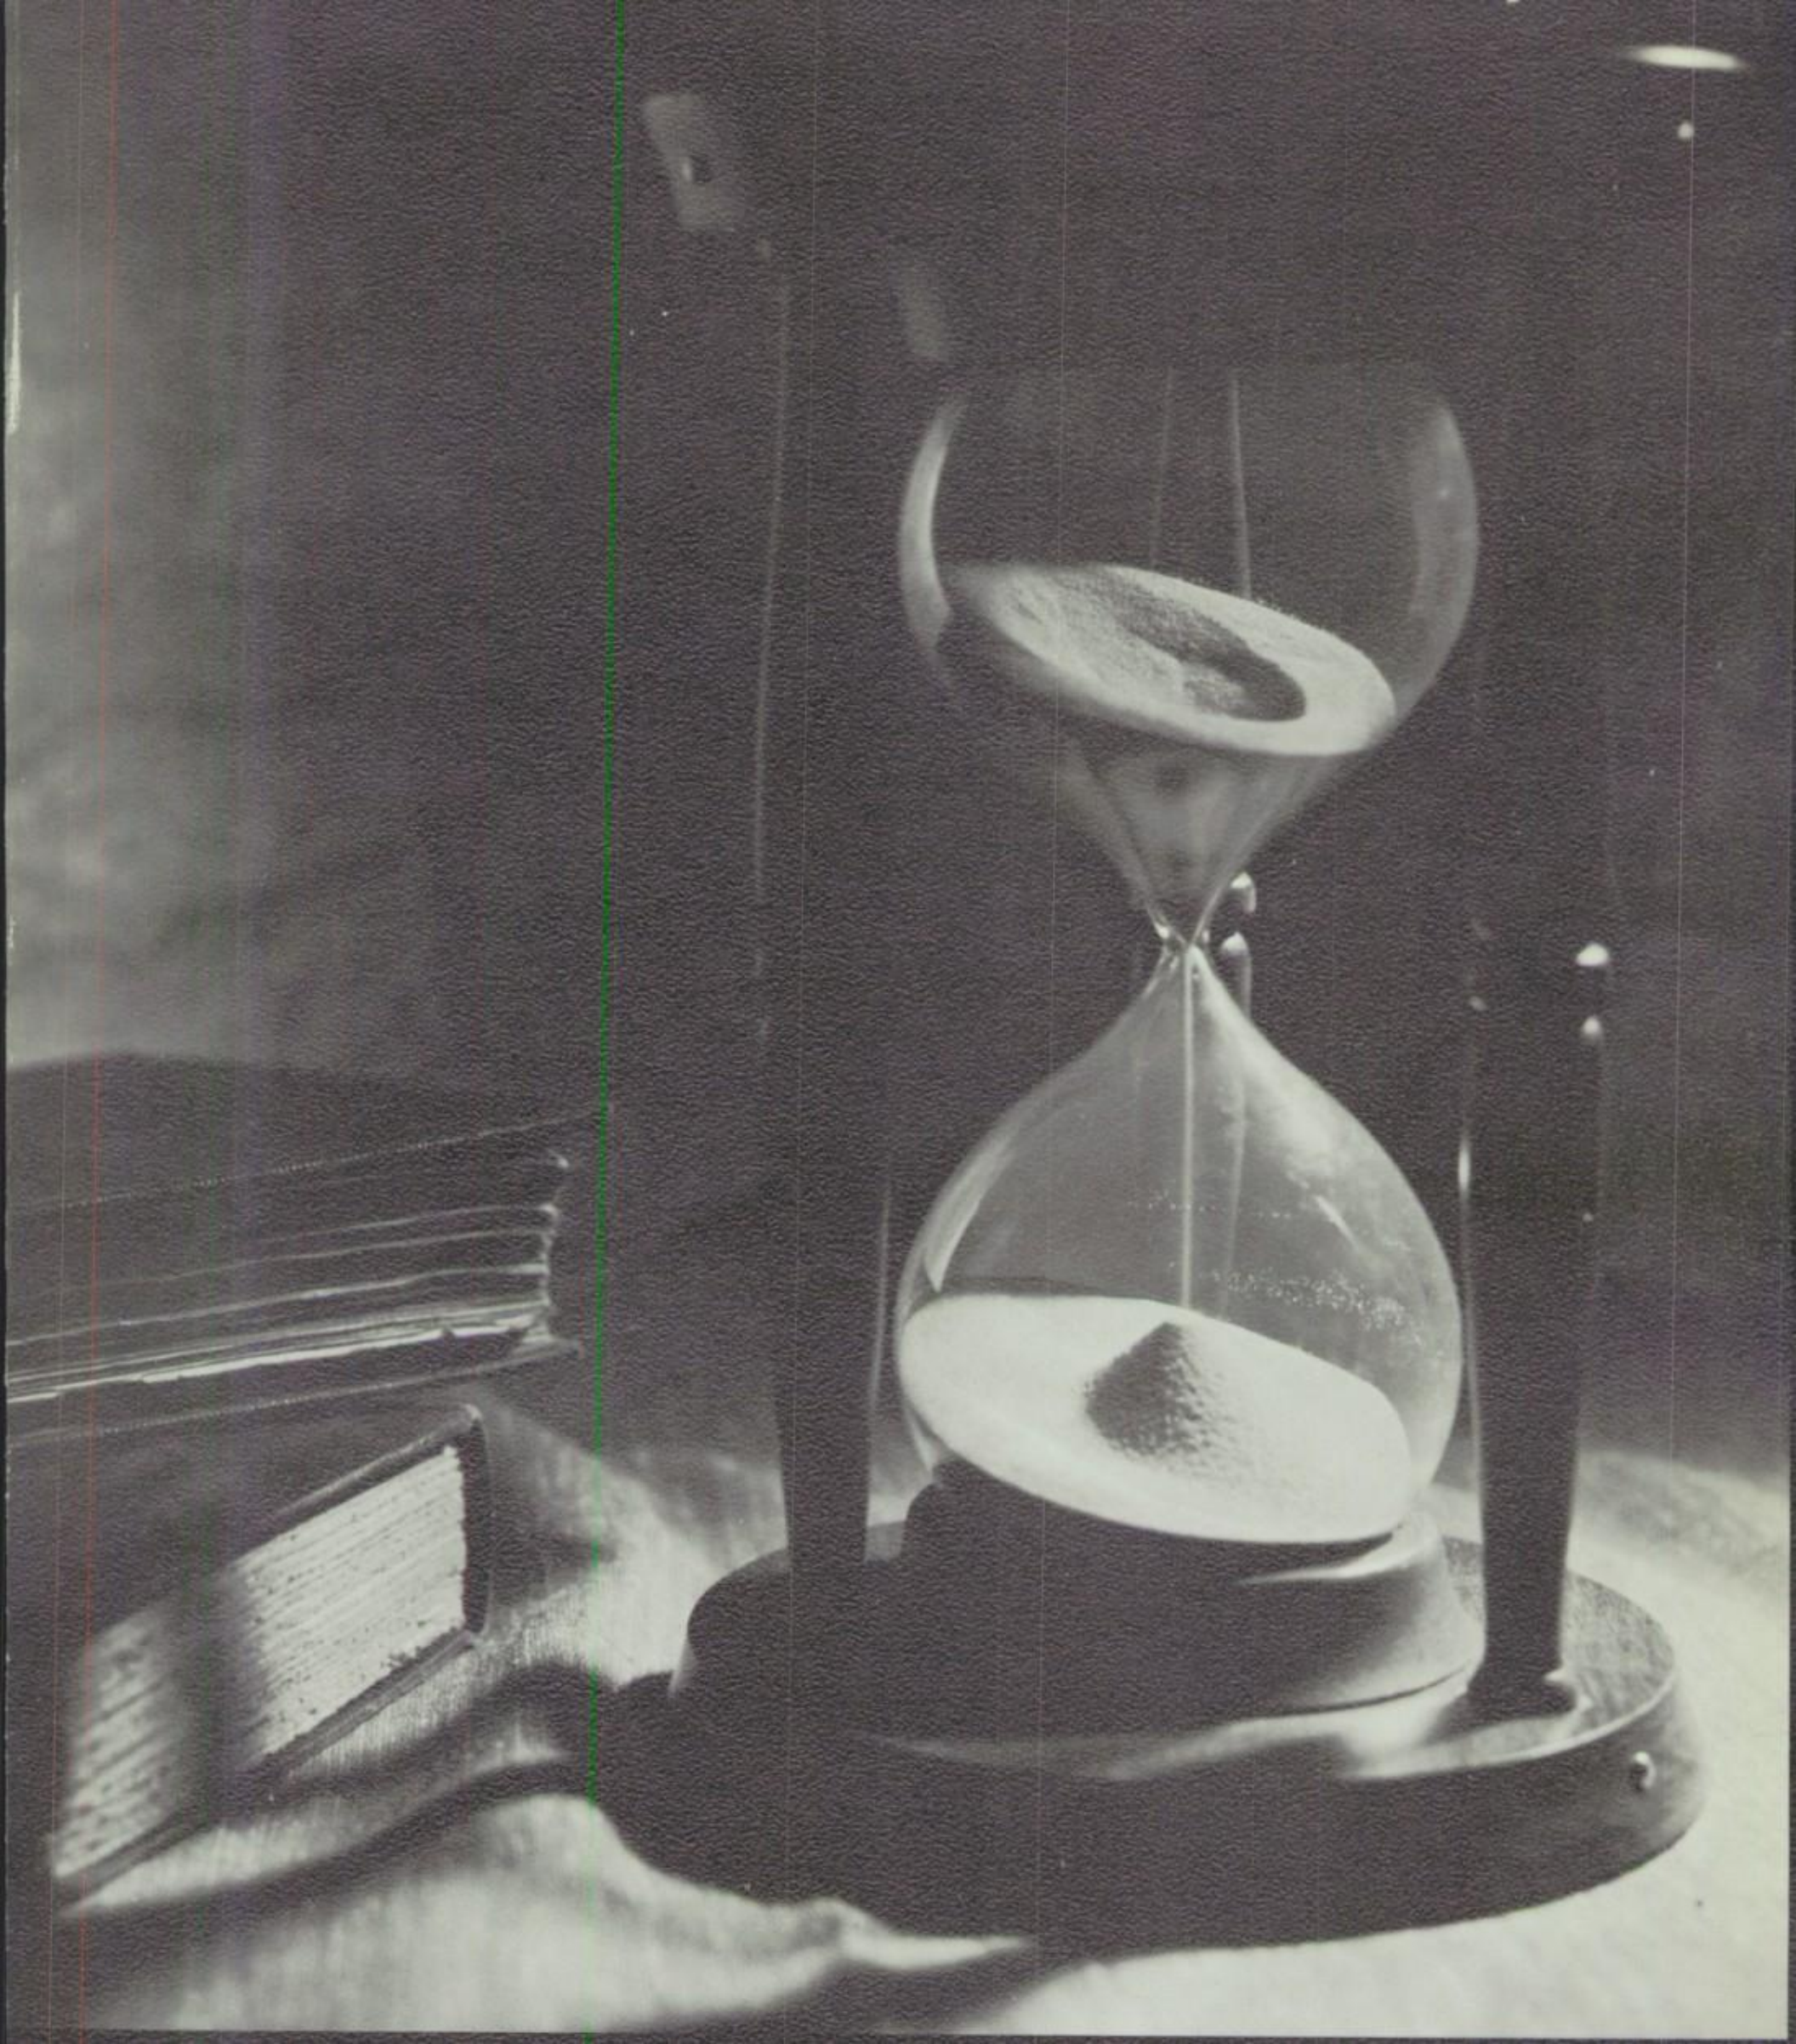
. . . and childhood ends.



Halls were crowded with unfamiliar faces at the beginning of our sophomore year.

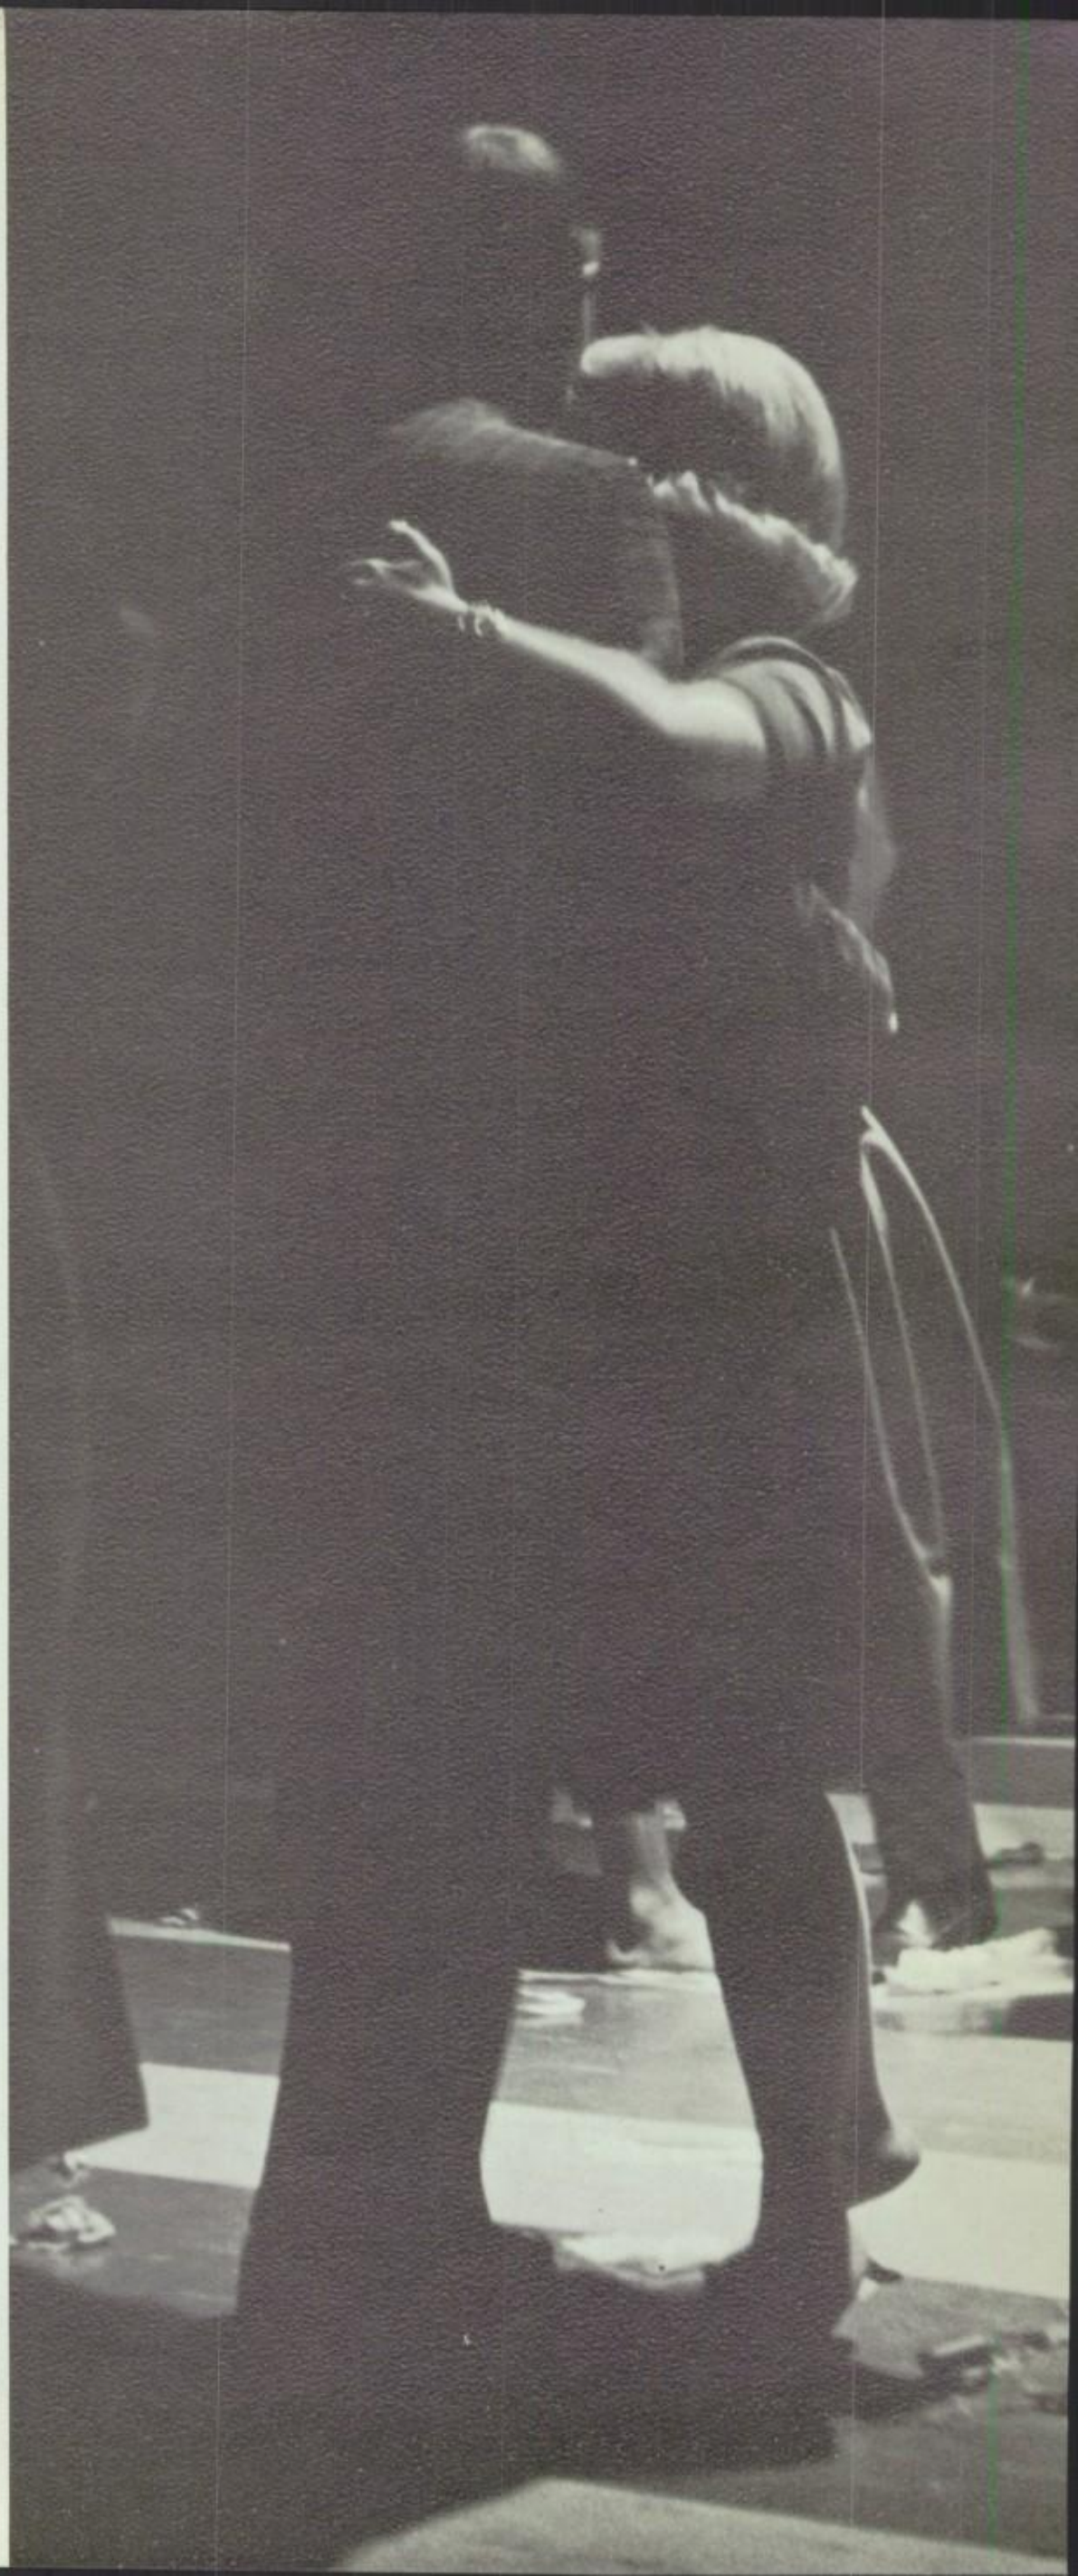
We soon discovered some territory was forbidden.

Bruce Algozin got good response at the class council meetings.

South seemed large and frightening to us, but teachers and students were friendly.

We were quickly absorbed into the life of the school.

Studies were harder, but more rewarding.



We returned refreshed after the summer—now South was home.

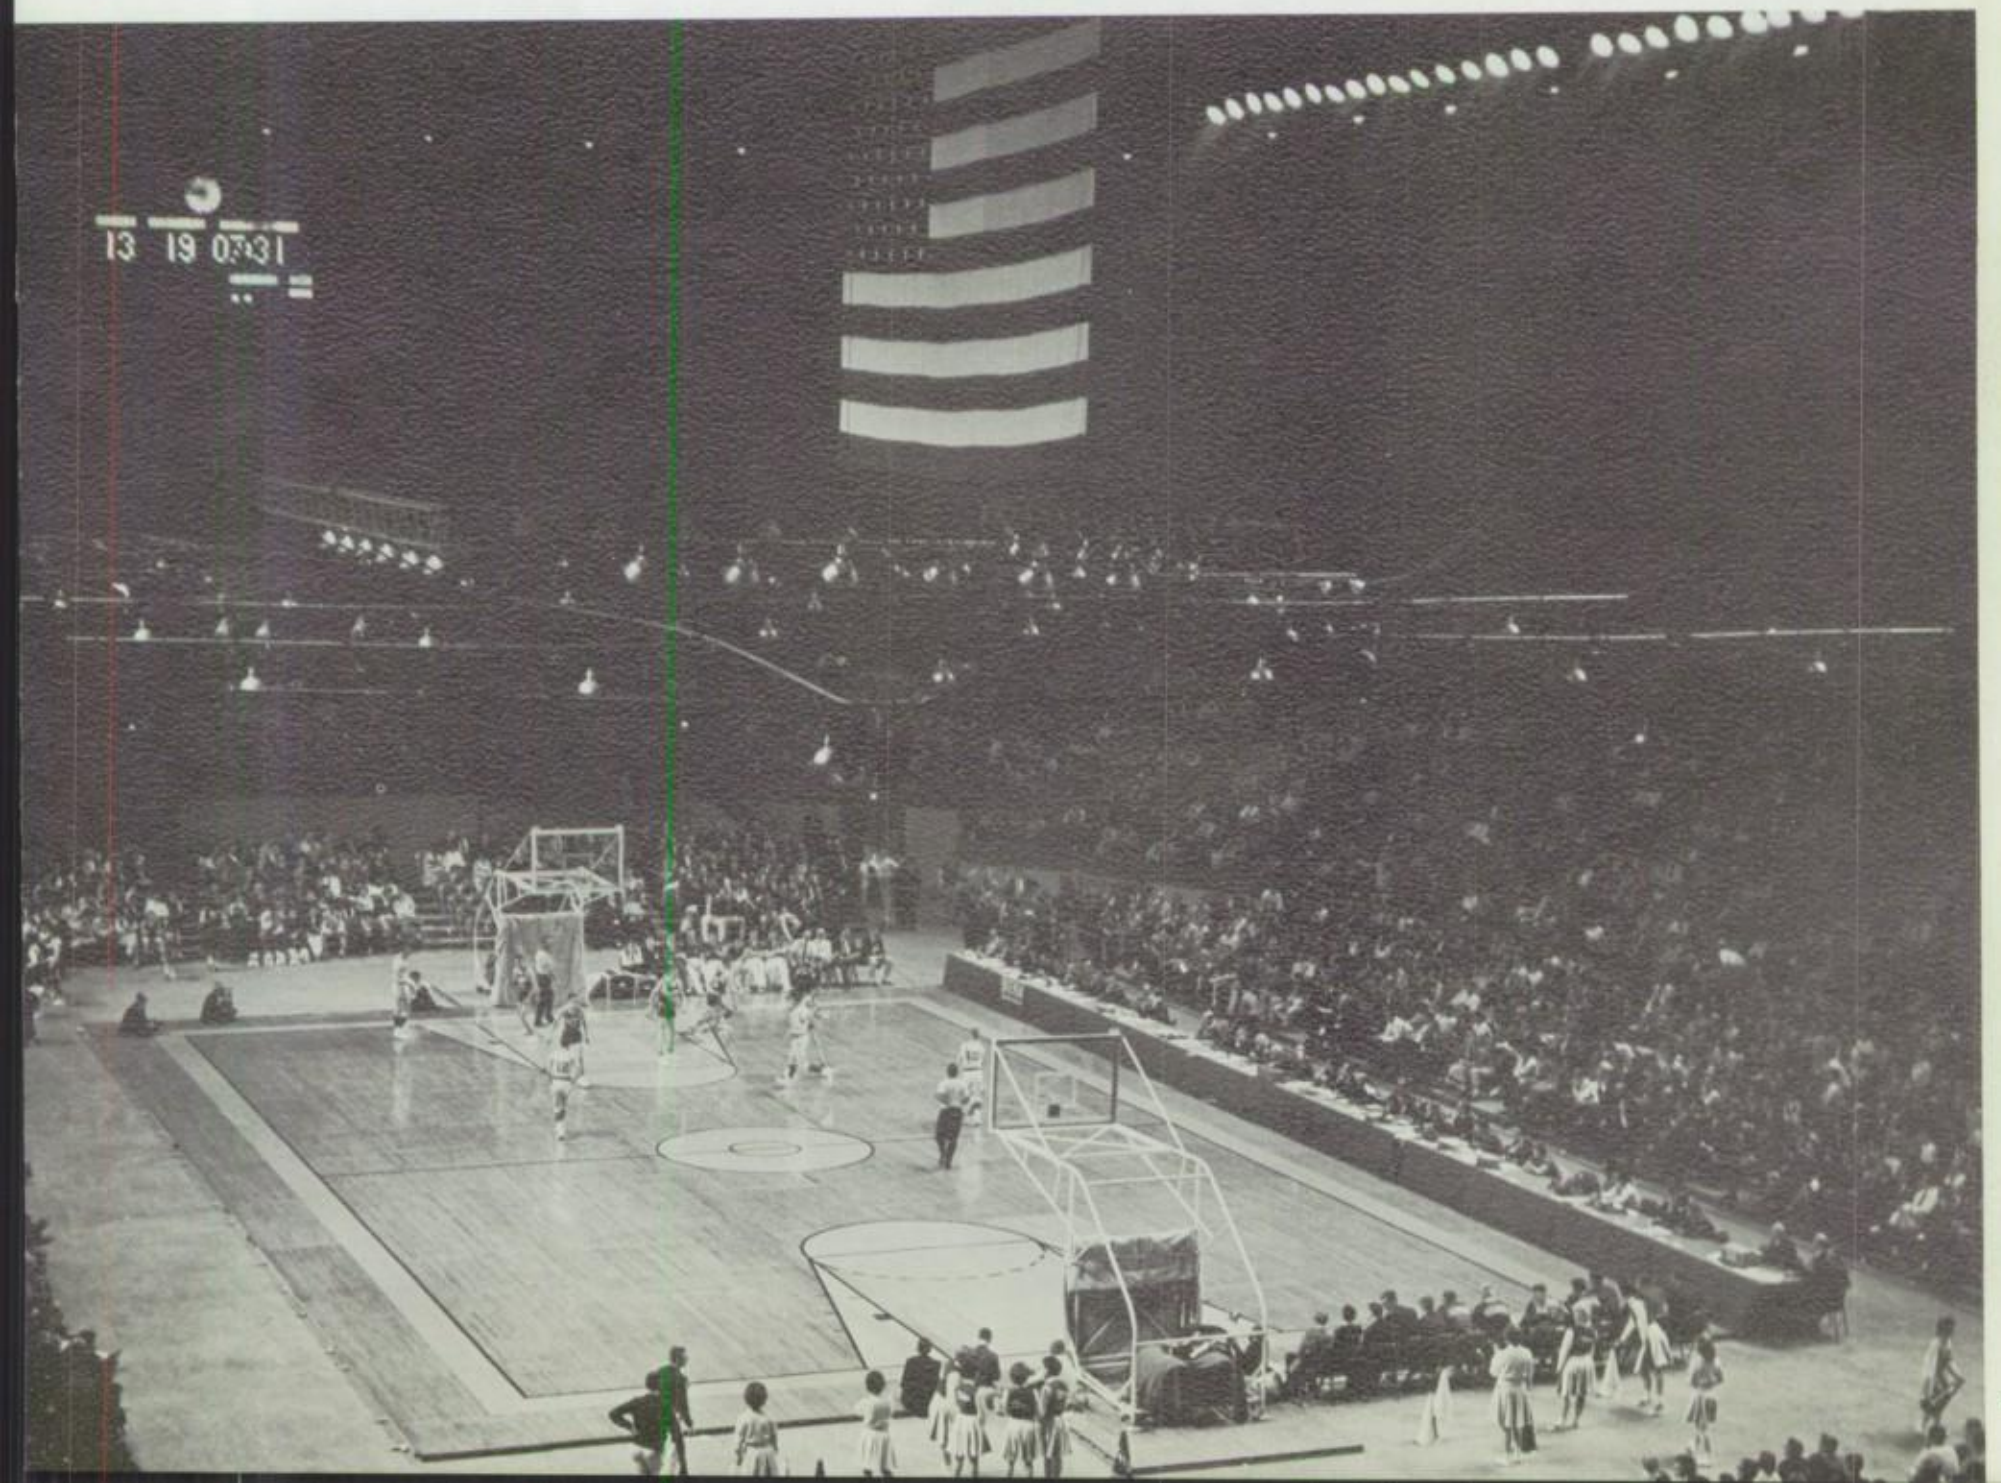
The popcorn wagon provided many temptations—snow cones, popcorn, candy.

The new sophomores seemed small and timid.

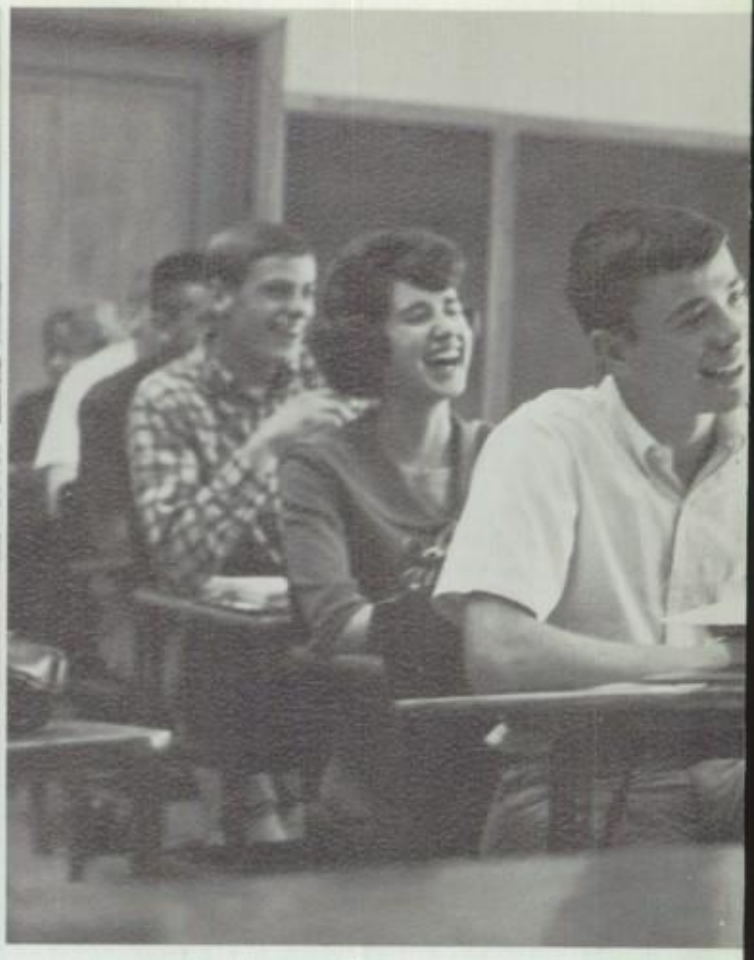
Proudly we rallied for the Homecoming game.

South proudly entered the state competition in basketball as Denver All-City Champions.

Teams rejoice in the locker room after winning a fantastic victory from Washigton at our Homecoming.



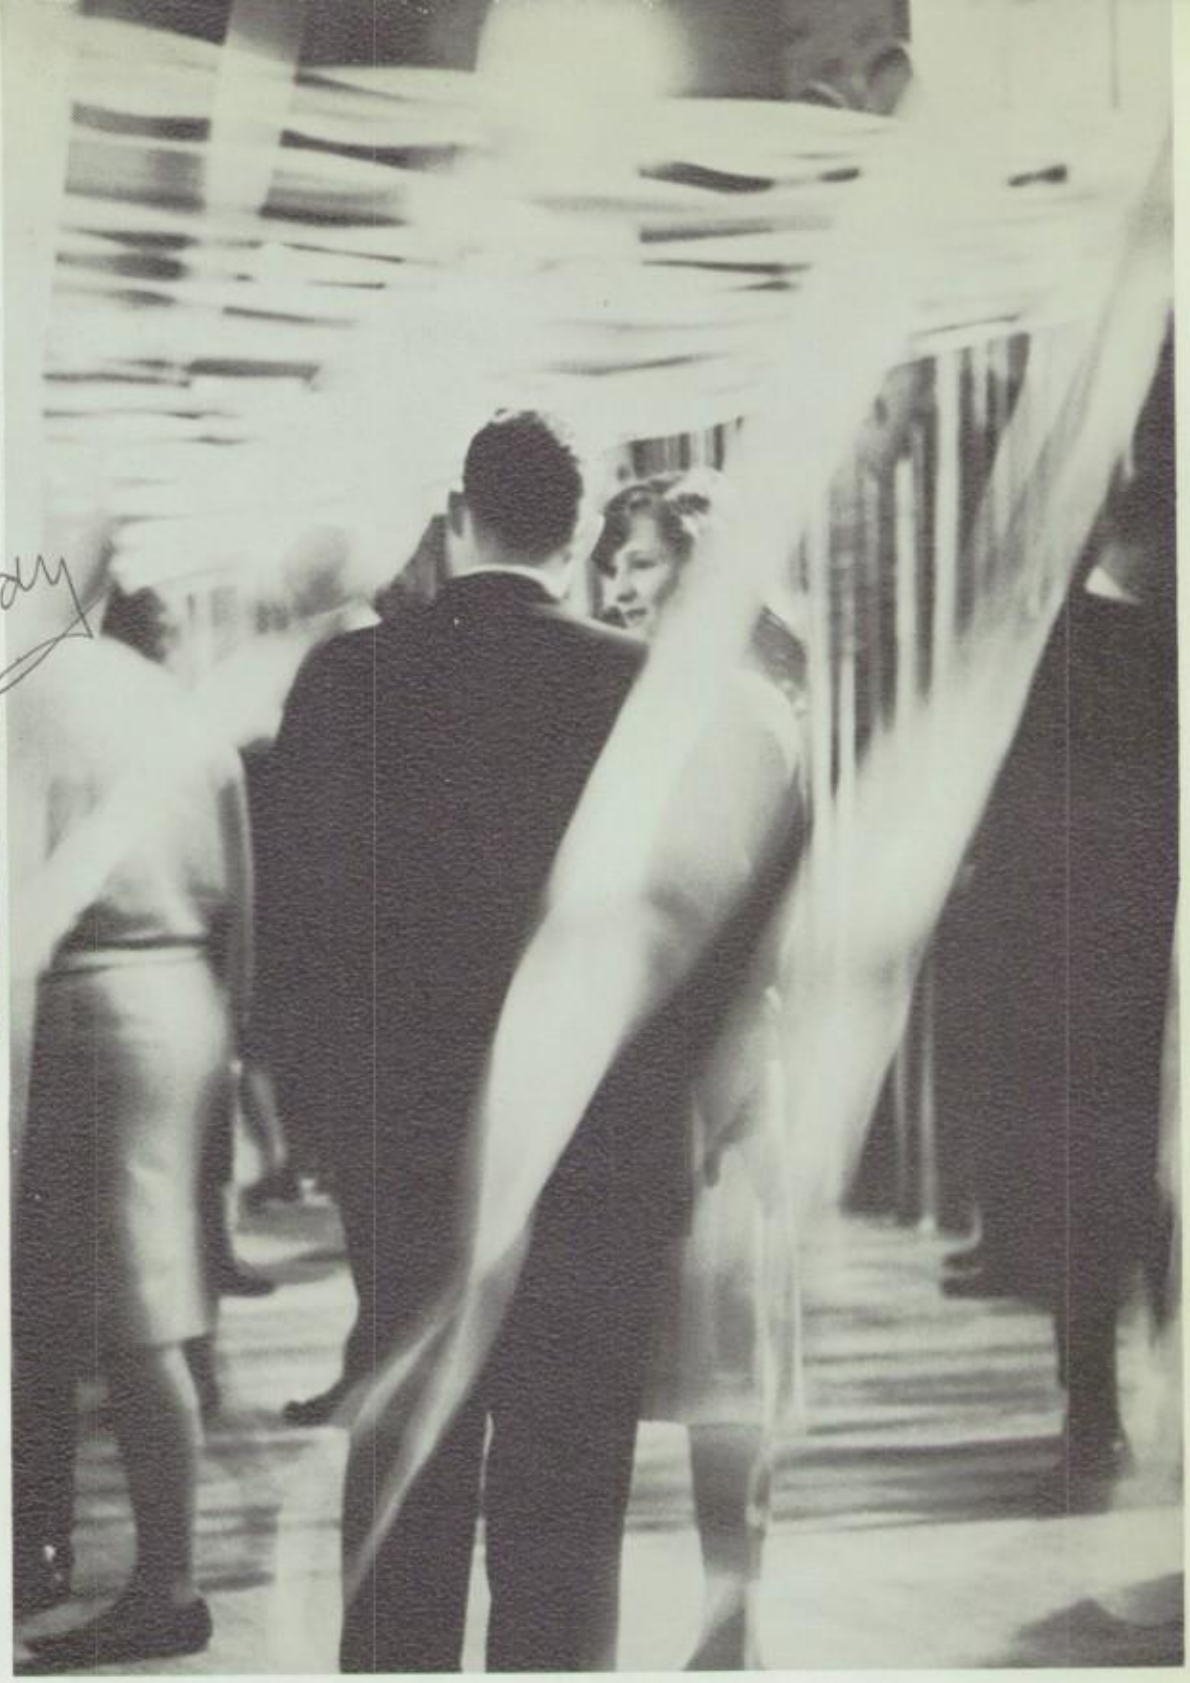
Seniors proudly collect under our class banner at the Homecoming Rally.



Classes, no longer strange, are sources of comradeship and fun.

Victor's reward at the faculty vs. varsity game.

Dave Kroenke indulges in a favorite senior boys' pastime.



Weeks of looking forward to the date culminate an evening of delight for South High students.

Privileges of seniors in Senior Hall, away from prying sophomoric eyes.

The triumphant cast receives its hard-earned applause.

Astonished students learned from radios of the assassination of our President on November 22nd.

None of us will ever forget the emotion conveyed by silence and tears at the assembly after school.

Our class collected a magnificent mound of "trash" to win the Goodwill Drive.

The dream of childhood, culmination of high school—graduation.

The many singers, and those who listened,
will never forget Concert Choir.

Students gather at the favorite spot after a game—McDonald's.

As our baseball players put down their bats—our three years of high school athletics ended.

In Memoriam

Barton Reed

Virginia,
As really been fun knowing you in Concert. I just love you all the luck in the world.
Have fun and may God always bless you,

Love,
Linda

Dear Mom,
Dad, Jeff
and Tyler
I love you
all so much

Virginia Tidmes

Dear,
It has been a real long time
that we have been friends.
It has been alot of fun and we have done alot of intersting things together. Good luck in all the years to come.
congratulations on your Graduation
God bless you and keep you always.
Love
Marty
